

Voronezh Falls To Red Troops, Moscow Reports

Russians Now Menace Key Caucasian Rail Head of Tikhoretsk

Stalin Calls upon Reds To Drive Nazis Out of Russia

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Red army rolling westward on a 500 mile front has expelled all the Germans from Voronezh, upper Don citadel, and reached a point forty miles from Tikhoretsk, key Caucasian rail junction below Rostov, Moscow reported today, and Premier Joseph Stalin has ordered his troops to hurl back the invaders "over the boundaries of our motherland."

Stalin's order of the day broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor quoted him as saying more than 200,000 Axis captives had been taken in two months, 102 enemy divisions routed, and 13,000 guns and other equipment seized in an advance of 245 miles.

Thanks Red Troops

"The offensive of our troops continues," he said in thanking the Red troops and asking them to throw the Germans out of Russia.

A special communique heard here last night announced the complete occupation of Voronezh, which the Germans had seized partly in their summer drive. Eleven thousand more prisoners were reported taken to make the total for that front 75,000.

The midnight communique told of the capture in the Caucasus of Belaya Glinka, a twelve mile advance since Sunday. It put the Russians only forty miles from Tikhoretsk, where the Stalingrad-Novorossiysk and Rostov-Baku railways meet.

Red Noose Tightens

Tikhoretsk's capture would draw a firm Russian noose around the last Nazi base on Rostov toward which Soviet troops already are fighting fifty-six miles east of Rostov and seventy miles to the north. It also would cut off the retreat of Nazi troops based between the Tikhoretsk line and the Black Sea—except by evacuation to the Crimea across the narrow Kerch straits.

Russian troops in the lower Caucasus already are menacing Kropotkin, forty miles south of Tikhoretsk, after seizing Armavir to control the Maikop oil wells to the west.

In the Ukraine the Russians were fighting within ten miles of Voroshilovgrad, Donets basin industrial center. Starobelsk, fifty miles to the northwest, and Valukhi, seventy miles farther along an important north-south railway, were in Russian hands. The latter is only about eighty-two miles from Kharkov, Ukraine capital which was one of the Axis springboards for last summer's drive.

Counter-Attacks Smashed

Thousands of Axis troops were killed or captured during yesterday's fighting, and frequent Nazi counter-attacks were smashed, particularly on the middle Don and North Caucasian fronts opposite Rostov, the communique said.

Moscow dispatches emphasized that the Germans were still hurling more and more tanks into action, along with reserve troops, on (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

48-Hour Week Urged by McNutt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The growing urgency of the manpower problem was indicated today in the activities of congressional committees and the assertion of Manpower Commissioner McNutt that a 48-hour week is necessary to get "maximum production with what we have."

Chairman Reynolds (D-N.C.) of the Senate Military committee said his group was considering the possible lengthening of the work week as part of the committee's inquiry into the broad question of manpower, military and civilian.

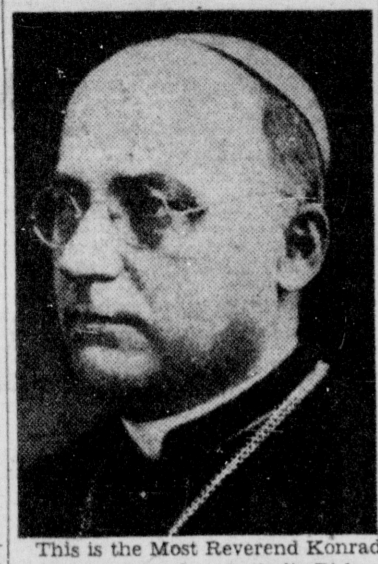

American Troops within Striking Distance of Rommel's Axis Army

By LEWIS HAWKINS

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—A raid by American troops to within striking distance of Marshal Rommel's line of retreat along the Gulf of Gabes in Tunisia and sharp progress of the Fighting French columns seeking to hit his flank, were disclosed today as the bulk of his army poured into Tunisia for a possible rendezvous with the forces of General von Arnim.

Allied headquarters in North Africa announced that American troops had thrust into the town of Maknassy, capturing eighty Axis prisoners in an area only thirty-three

CONDEMNS NAZIS

This is the Most Reverend Konrad Count von Preysing, Catholic Bishop of Berlin, whose pastoral letter circulated throughout Germany during the holiday season attacked the Nazis for shooting hostages and for curtailing the rights of the individual. Senator James Mead, N. Y., read the letter to the U. S. Senate.

Marshall Likely To Command All Forces in Africa

American General Seen as Logical Choice of United Nations

By ROBERT E. BUNELLE

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The United Nations were reported tonight in diplomatic circles to have agreed on a formula for some kind of a supreme council to direct and unify efforts to win the war in 1943.

British, United States, Russian and Chinese officials remained silent on the grand strategy talks known to have been under way, but it is no secret that some extremely important announcement affecting the Allied conduct of the war is imminent.

It is no secret either that a unification of strategy has been high on the Allied agenda for months, nor that as part of this unity, great attention is being given to the problem of co-ordinating Allied armies in North Africa under a single command.

Armies Near Junction

The British Eighth army commanded by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery under supervision of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, the Middle East commander, is nearing a junction with the British First army, the United States Fifth army and the French all under the direction of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the American.

Recent speculation has centered on Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, as commander-in-chief of Allied forces in the European theater. Walter Farr, editor of the Daily Mail that "keen observers" in Washington predicted the Marshall appointment. He also said that Vice Admiral Sir Percy Noble, head of the British admiralty delegation in Washington, might be placed in charge of a united campaign against submarines.

Nothing the great volume of public discussion, some observers viewed many rumors as having been planted deliberately to obtain public reaction.

U-Boat Menace Discussed

Of so, the renewed public, official and press attention to the submarine menace must have placed the U-boat problem high on the Allied agenda, along with the resolution of French political differences and wide scale offensive for 1943.

The cry for offensives to crush Germany, Italy and Japan has come increasingly from critics who expect an intensification of the German submarine campaign with 500 to 700 U-boats.

These critics assert that the answer is harder bombing attacks like the weekend assaults on such submarine lairs as Lorient and Brest, more patrol aircraft and more escorting craft, particularly the small, speedy boats and destroyers, for convoys.

No responsible person has suggested an early internal collapse of Germany, best though she is in Russia and North Africa. Virtually all discussion is based on the assumption that a smashing military defeat must be inflicted on the Axis.

Rubber and Oil Outlook Better, Jeffers Asserts

Administrator Optimistic, He Tells Governors at Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP)—Delegates to the Council of State Governments were given hopes today by Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers and Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman that the perplexed rubber and oil problems would soon begin to show signs of light.

Cheers greeted Jeffers' flat statement that he was opposed to further restrictions on the use of rubber and that the nation would get its first synthetic taste in about another month.

He said, however, he did not know just how much synthetic rubber could be produced in a plant until the one at Institute, W. Va.,—the first to be opened—begins operation about March 1.

More Oil Soon

Eastman said that the nation and particularly, the eastern states would get considerably more oil within a few months if new plans of transportation do not fall through.

He declared more than 70,000 railroad tank cars, about two-thirds of the nation's total number, were now employed in the movement of oil, and said plans call for the construction of 5,000 additional tank cars.

He pictured the geographical location of eastern seaboard states as "unfortunate" because, he asserted, oil for the African forces had to be shipped from this area of the country.

The transportation director said his office had under consideration other means of moving oil, two of which were barges and additional pipe lines.

Praises Railroads

He praised the effort of railroads and other groups responsible for the transportation of oil, but admitted there were still ways of improving the transportation system. "I think we've done a pretty good job," he added, "although I think we could do better."

The questions of oil and rubber, highlighted the council's second day of meeting, and dominated the round-table program which brought together four of the nation's top-flight war leaders—Jeffers, Eastman, Manpower Administrator Paul V. McNutt and Civilian Defense Director James M. Landis.

Earlier in the day, Nebraska's Republican governor Dwight Griswold criticized federal agencies administering the oil supply for not telling the people "true facts."

He said he had received so many contradictory statements on the need for gasoline and fuel oil rationing that he did not know what to believe. He realized, he said, that transportation was critical but that it alone was not the prime cause of the oil shortage.

He charged that the government, however, still contended transportation was the one big obstacle to better supplies when, in actuality, shipments abroad were responsible for the shortage in most part.

Wickard Outlines Plan To Increase Farm Production

Would Offer Growers $100,000,000 in "Incentive Payments"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today outlined a broad program to increase production of vital war crops by offering growers approximately $100,000,000 in "incentive payments" for meeting or exceeding greatly expanded production goals.

The new program, announced at a special press conference, will apply to soybeans, peanuts, grain sorghums, flax, sweet potatoes and dried peas, which Wickard said were greatly needed in the war effort to meet deficiencies in vegetable oils and proteins for animal feeding as well as human consumption.

Growers of these crops will receive extra payment for each acre they exceed ninety per cent of their farm goals up to 110 per cent of the goal.

Wickard said the incentive payments were part of the department's program to assist farmers in producing maximum amounts of essential war products.

"To get this additional production will mean that farmers will need more labor and materials—which naturally means that their production costs will go up," Wickard said. "This additional assistance will be necessary also for farmers who have not had experience in growing some of these crops. The program for incentive payments is being offered to compensate farmers for added costs in achieving the increased goals."

War Production Rate of U. S. Is Best in World

All Allied Nations Outstripped, Stettinius Reports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The United States has now outstripped the war production rate of every other Allied nation and has supplied $825,000,000 worth of Lend-Lease goods and services to other countries from March 11, 1941, to Dec. 31, 1942, Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., reported to Congress today.

The furnishing of Lend-Lease aid declined from a peak of $915,000,000 in October to $810,000,000 in November and $757,000,000 in December, the report disclosed.

But the total for those three months was twice the total for all of 1941 and the full year's total in 1942 of $7,009,000,000 was more than five times that of 1941.

One tank and combat plane out of every three built in this country in 1942 was shipped to our Allies but this took account not only of Lend-Lease but of outright foreign purchases from us.

Lend-Lease countries bought $6,900,000,000 worth of goods from us between March, 1941, and December, 1942, while goods exported under Lend-Lease—in that time came to $5,959,000,000. It was in March, 1942, that Lend-Lease exports started to exceed other exports.

Goods Transferred

Goods transferred (but not necessarily exported) under Lend-Lease since March, 1941, came to $6,547,769,000 and Lend-Lease services to $1,705,034,000 to make the $8,252,803,000 total.

Transfers generally have been made before the goods leave this country. About ninety per cent of the goods transferred have been exported and the rest is awaiting shipment. Some of the shipments, of course, never reach their destination, because of enemy action.

In declaring that the United States now has the highest war production rate of any of the United Nations, the report did not specify when this status was reached but noted that "until last spring, Great Britain, with one-third of our population and industrial capacity, was producing more armaments than we were." It also noted that "more Nazi soldiers have been killed by Russian-made weapons since the beginning of the war than on all the other war fronts combined."

Russia Benefits Most

Not Great Britain but Russia apparently has been the greatest beneficiary of Lend-Lease.

"Up to Jan. 1, 1943, the United States had shipped to the Soviet Union under Lend-Lease more than 3,200 tanks, almost 2,600 planes and 61,800 trucks, jeeps, and other military motor vehicles," Stettinius reported. "This is more than we have sent to the United Kingdom or any other military theater under Lend-Lease since the beginning of the Lend-Lease program in March, 1941, although Lend-Lease aid to Russia did not begin until October 1941—eight months later."

Nearly half of all Lend-Lease shipments to the United Kingdom have been food and other agricultural products.

Japanese Ships Bombed at Rabaul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS in AUSTRALIA, Tuesday, Jan. 26 (AP)—Allied bombers returned to the attack on off-bombed Rabaul, scoring hits on two Japanese ships, General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Heavy bombers struck again in a low-altitude raid, penetrating severe anti-aircraft fire and a screen of searchlights, the noon communique said.

One of the ships, a 2,000-tonner probably loaded with munitions, exploded when hit.

"But," he added in his prepared address, "a series of measures extending into different parts of the war economy have kept wages within reasonable levels."

Some elasticity of wage rates, he said, has "proved to be essential to an efficient war economy. It has been necessary to raise wages substantially in agriculture and coal mining and to some extent in shipbuilding, otherwise workers could not have been prevented from leaving those occupations without causing serious unrest."

Stassen Urges Creation of Legion Of United Nations To Fight in War

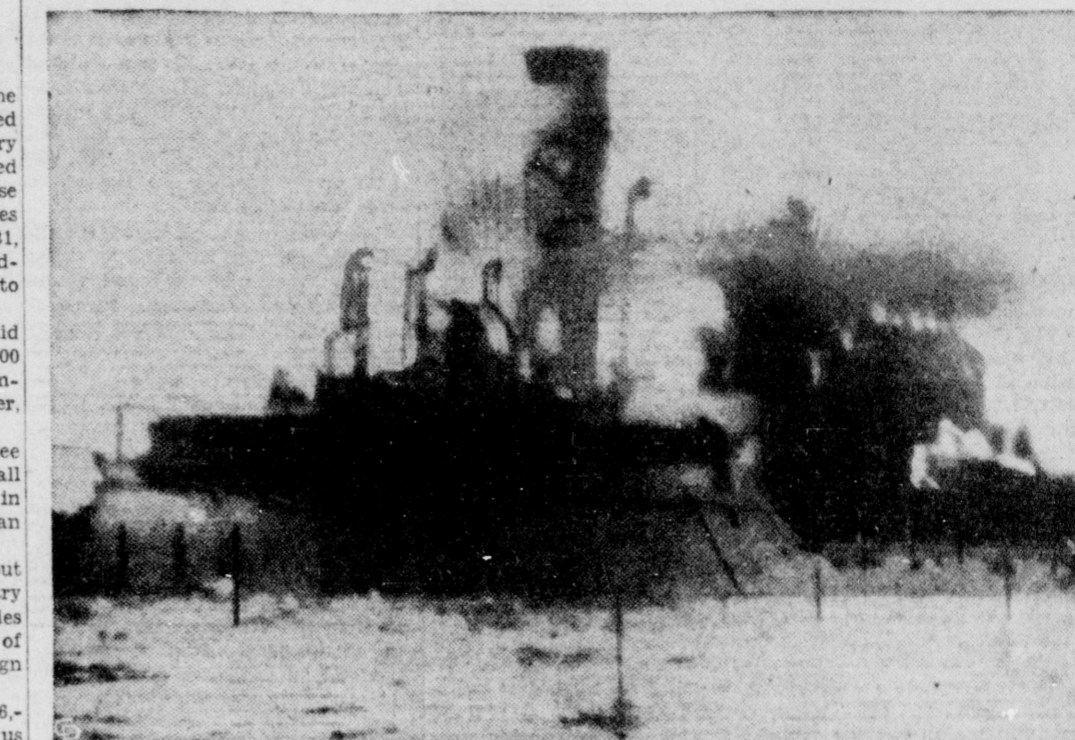

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP)—Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, champion of a post-war federation of United Nations, suggested tonight immediate creation of a United Nations Legion to fight in this war and to be a "forerunner of the police force of the future."

"We could well create now," Stassen said in a prepared address before the council of state governments, "a division of volunteers with varied nationalities, capable of speaking more than one language and willing to fight side by side for the United Nations cause, as a forerunner of the police force of the future."

Stassen defended his federation plan and replied to those who "recognize the desirability of world co-operation but who urge that the means and methods should not be discussed now, and who feel that after the war is over we can suddenly pick out of thin air a full blown plan of international action."

Cook Questioned In Train Murder Of Martha James

Negro, Insists He Knows Nothing about Brutal Killing

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25 (AP)—Police today questioned a negro cook about the slaying in lower berth 13.

Robert Folkes, 21, was second cook on the train on which Mrs. Martha Virginia James, 21-year-old bride of a naval ensign, was fatally slashed in the throat. The slaying occurred as the California-bound train was nearing Klamath Falls, Ore., Saturday.

Denies He Is Slayer

Folkes told Detectives R. B. McCreddie and Vernon Rasmussen that he had had several drinks before getting on the train and then had had a few more at a private party in the dining car. He told detectives he went through Mrs. James' car the night of the murder, but said he was on his way to the smoking car where he (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Winant Explains British System Of Wartime Production

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP)—John G. Winant, United States ambassador to Great Britain explained to the council of state governments here tonight how the British had handled wartime production problems now facing the United States and noted there had been no "freezing" of wages in Great Britain.

"But," he added in his prepared address, "a series of measures extending into different parts of the war economy have kept wages within reasonable levels."

Some elasticity of wage rates, he said, has "proved to be essential to an efficient war economy. It has been necessary to raise wages substantially in agriculture and coal mining and to some extent in shipbuilding, otherwise workers could not have been prevented from leaving those occupations without causing serious unrest."

Fuel Oil To Be Rationed in Two Western States

Washington and Oregon Come under New Drastic Order

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Rationing of heating oil in the Pacific northwest was ordered today by the petroleum administrator for war in a move designed to reduce domestic consumption in the states of Washington and Oregon by approximately twenty-five per cent.

Exigencies of war require this action, the petroleum administration said, adding that inventories are declining and that steps must be taken to conserve supplies.

Revolt against Germans May Be Turning Point

Forty Thousand French Arrested by Army of Occupation

Citizens Fire upon Nazis from Their Barricaded Homes

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Revolting Frenchmen barricaded themselves inside their homes in the old port district of Marseille tonight and began fighting German troops who called upon tanks and artillery, reports from Switzerland said.

The revolt in restless France broke out after German occupation authorities and their puppet Vichy regime headed by Pierre Laval ordered the evacuation and razing of the entire area of 40,000 persons. DNB dispatches to Madrid and Lisbon said that 40,000 persons already had been arrested, but a few hours before the Vichy radio said only 6,000 had been rounded up.

Fire on Nazi Soldiers

A Reuters dispatch from Zurich said that an undetermined number of Frenchmen dug up their guns, fortified their homes as best they could, and began firing on every German soldier approaching.

The German troops then summoned artillery and tanks and began besieging the French in a house-to-house fight in the labyrinthian sector of narrow dark streets. The Marseille fighting highlighted the increasing trouble encountered by the Germans and their Vichy regime throughout the country.

The Berlin radio broadcast a Vichy dispatch late tonight admitting that the Marseille drive was "not only against ordinary criminals, but also against various secret political organizations which have settled in the city."

Arrest 500 a Month

Laval's regime was said to have carried out 10,000 "investigations" of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Fighting French adherents and communists, and the Nazis themselves have arrested "800 persons every month" since the occupation.

Trouble has flared up previously in Marseille, where the Germans are busy fortifying the coast against an expected Allied invasion from North Africa.

"Many Jews" were among those arrested, a DNB Paris dispatch said. Physicians, midwives, railroad clerks and other professional men were not arrested, it added.

Thousands of persons were reported being transferred to Poitiers in the War department, a town near the coast about seventy-five miles east of Marseille, and twenty miles southwest of Cannes.

Forde Predicts New Jap Attack

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 25—(AP)—Army Minister Francis Forde said today he expected the Japanese to counterattack in New Guinea despite the destruction of their pocket army of 15,000 men in Papua.

He appealed for a greater air force, more men and equipment to enable the Allies to launch further offensives from the Australian base.

"The Japanese undoubtedly will counterattack at the first opportunity they consider suitable," Forde said, "we must therefore look upon the Papuan success as a further breathing space to enable us to perfect our fighting organization."

Forde praised the fighting forces that cleaned up Papua but warned against complacency. He said the southwest Pacific could not be considered a side show.

Army Reservists in Colleges Soon To Be Called for Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The bulk of the army's enlisted reservists in colleges throughout the United States will be ordered to active duty in the near future, War department officials said today.

An order was sent Saturday by Major General James A. Ullo, the adjutant general, to the commanding generals of the nine service commands reminding them that the specialized training program announced Dec. 17 called for induction of most reservists at the conclusion of the first college term ending after Dec. 31, 1942.

Crosby and Hope Will Join Tonight In Radio Program

Secretary Ickes Will Be Heard Again on Oil Situation

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Bing Crosby and Bob Hope are to get together in Bob Hope's program on NBC at 10 o'clock Tuesday night. The idea is basically to team up for Uncle Sam in that they are to use the occasion to sell war bonds. For that reason the sponsor is waiving his own announcements so there will be more time for the war bond effort.

Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes, who also is petroleum coordinator, is to broadcast again on the oil situation. This time, at 10:30 a. m., he will be heard via MBS as he addresses the general assembly of the Council of State Governments from Baltimore. Although the talk goes on the network at 10:30, some stations are not relaying it until later from records.

Variety Event

That Only Yesterday variety show of CBS at 10 p. m. in which Benny Rubin, Cavort and Mary Small sings, will have Joe Verdi, vaudeville veteran, and the musical comedy star, Vivienne Segal, as microphone helpers.

Another shift in schedule for MBS has moved Alfred Wallenstein's Sinfonietta again. The new spot is in the late schedule at 11:30, with the program to be devoted solely to Mendelsohn's symphony No. 1.

Charles P. Taft, assistant director of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services, is to discuss "Family Health in America" for a CBS broadcast at 10:30.

Prime Minister John Curtin, speaking from Australia, is to be heard in an Australia day talk on NBC at 6:30.

A search by Singer-Actress Grace McDonald for a character to meet the description in the hit tune she introduced, "Mr. Five by Five," turned up Clay Womack, 50-year-old war worker, who is five feet tall and measures five feet around the waist. He is shown with Miss McDonald in Los Angeles.

72 Per Cent of W. Va. Auto Dealers Close Up

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 24. (AP)—Evidence of wartime restriction on the automobile industry in West Virginia is disclosed by the announcement that more than seventy-two per cent of that state's auto dealers have "dug in" for the duration.

Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, said a cross-section survey showed that the "mortality rate among the auto retailers in West Virginia during the past year has been slightly more than ten per cent."

He said the fact that the majority of the dealers had "dug in" for the duration, indicated that they expect to be in business when the war is over.

Of the twenty-eight per cent in the state who may not survive, less than eight per cent definitely plan to close their doors before hostilities cease, Frazer said.

Red Cross Unit Needs Some Needling

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., (AP)—Needle, needle—who's got the needle? That's what the Martinsburg Red Cross chapter would like to know.

The members are asking for all surplus needles—or even a single surplus needle—to enable them to complete assigned work.

Chapter officials said manufacturers of needles who have been supplying the chapter are no longer able to meet the demand, and one immediate result has been the holding up of soldier kits for men overseas.

The chapter has sent hundreds of kits to the men in the armed forces but until needles can be obtained to fill the kits, shipments must be delayed.

Corvettes constructed by the Allies are generally of smaller size than those designed early in the war.

Income Tax Office Expands Facilities

Over 20,000 Expected To File Returns in This Area

Preparations are being made at the offices of the Bureau of Internal Revenue here, to accommodate about twice as many federal income tax payers as last year, according to Richard J. Stakem, acting division chief.

Nearly 20,000 persons in the Cumberland area are expected to file returns this year, under the new and more far reaching income tax law. Offices in the local post office building have been enlarged and field deputies will be sent here from Baltimore to assist the local staff.

The final date for filing 1942 income tax returns is March 15.

Will Sell Stamps
Room 303 will be the cashier's section, where taxpayers can present cash or checks eliminating the necessity of obtaining money orders on the first floor. Federal tax stamps of all kinds may be purchased.

Room 301 will be the division chief's office and Room 305 will be the deputy collector's office where persons may obtain assistance and information in filing returns. Beginning February 1, deputy collectors from Baltimore will be here to assist.

To Send Deputies
In addition to the deputy clerks assigned to the local office, others will be sent to the following towns in this area: Oakland postoffice, February 1 to 4; Crellin postoffice,

Feb. 5; Grantsville, Feb. 6; Frostburg, Feb. 8 and 9; Luke, Devon Club rooms, Feb. 10 to 13; Barton, First National Bank, Feb. 15; Westport, Feb. 16 and 17; Mt. Savage, Firemen's Hall, Feb. 18; Lonaconing, Feb. 19.

M. H. Magruder, collector of Internal revenue in Maryland, said the Cumberland office will be the same as the Baltimore office and give the same service.

A Committee Gets "Warm"

REMEMBER the old parlor game of "Hot and Cold" wherein the proximity of the subject to an unnamed object is indicated by relative temperature? Well, the Senate Finance committee at Annapolis is in like manner being designated as "warm" in digging into the state salary question.

It, as well as the similar committee in the House, could engage in no more important work than to dig down into the salaries of state employees, both named and unnamed.

There appears to be a natural reluctance on the part of the administration to give out the necessary information about the salary schedules and particularly those which will be revised under the Standard Salary act, which is to become effective July 1. The committee has learned that about seventy per cent of the salaries will then be changed, but it has been unable to gain information to show which will be changed or how much.

Beall's Assignments Are Particularly Appropriate

ASSIGNMENT of Representative J. Glenn Beall, of the Western Maryland district, to the important committees on roads and flood control is a natural, to use a well-known and particularly applicable colloquialism.

This is for the reason that Mr. Beall is unusually well qualified to render good service on these committees. Having been a member of the state Roads commission, where his demonstrated executive ability quickly won him promotion to the chairmanship, and having served previously on a county road body, he is thoroughly conversant with the subject, and he can bring to the group a wealth of experience that will prove valuable.

Likewise, Beall's long identification and active participation in local flood relief proposals in an area where the subject has become of prime importance by reason of its connection with the necessity for similar protection for the seat of the national government will prove extremely beneficial to the flood control committee, to which he can contribute materially.

The assignment on the District of Columbia committee is a tough one. This is the governing body of the national capital, which does the duty of a mayor and city council. As Charles P. Stewart, the Central Press-News Washington correspondent, pointed out a few days since, membership on that committee means a whole lot of trouble, for which reason practically all the members of the House shy clear of the job. Right now, to quote Stewart, Washington local government is "the worst mixed-up municipal mess in the United States," not only because of the peculiarity of its governmental functioning but also because of the multitudinous problems that have arisen there with the wartime expansion of the federal government, to say nothing of the similar expansion preceding it under the New Deal order of things.

Herein, however, the assignment of Beall is a distinct recognition of his administrative capacity. The work involved is something to which ordinarily a congressional veteran is usually assigned, for obvious reasons. But the new representative from the Sixth district can be expected to be equal to the occasion and to give satisfactory service, in the pursuance of which he will gain an experience that will be of benefit in his future congressional career.

All in all, these committee assignments reflect credit both to Representative Joseph W. Martin, the minority leader, for his further demonstration of his political acumen, and to Beall himself, while they are a source of satisfaction on the part of Western Marylanders because their district will assume a new importance in Wash-ton legislation by virtue of the part played therein by these groups and by the relation of the district to their objectives.

Further Cut in State Income Tax Necessary

HEARTY APPLAUSE is due state Senator Wilmer Fell Davis, of Caroline county, minority party floor leader, for having prepared and introduced a bill which would immediately reduce the iniquitous state income taxes in half and keep them so reduced until further action of the General Assembly.

There is no sound reason for giving the burdened taxpayers of the state a reduction of only a third in this tax as proposed by Governor O'Connor under fire from the citizenry while he purposes increased appropriations for general expenses of state government and refuses to make a more satisfactory reduction in state governmental personnel and other state nonessentials.

As a matter of fact, the whole state income tax should be wiped out for the next biennium and it could easily be done, but that is quite too much to expect in view of the firm grasp the administration is taking on this scheme of taxation and its extreme reluctance to let go. That is demonstrated by the administration proposal to have the proposed one-third cut in the income tax remain in temporary status and have it revert to the existing unconscionable rates at the end of the biennium. Senator Davis' bill would make the fifty per cent cut indefinite. The General Assembly can always change it one way or another, and it is senseless trying to tie the hands of a future legislature, which cannot be done anyway.

Annapolis reports the introduction of the Davis bill as evidence of an apparent intention of the Senate Finance committee to question Governor O'Connor's budget for the forthcoming biennium. It is to be hoped that such is the case, for that budget is an anachronism—the governor should be informed that a war is on and that it is costing the people tremendously, so much so, indeed, that they cannot afford to pay unnecessary state income taxes.

The Senate and the House should go into the budget courageously and thoroughly with that reminder as a sufficient incentive. As this newspaper has repeatedly declared, the state government should be required to make the same sacrifices now that the people have been required to undergo.

Why a Carrier Is Named the Cowpens

MORE AMERICANS are familiar with the United States Navy's traditional method of naming warships than was the case before the war. Battleships are named for states, cruisers for cities and towns, destroyers for navy heroes and submarines for fish.

But the tradition is not so hard and fast when it comes to naming aircraft carriers. Two, the Wasp and Hornet, were named for insects with stings. The names of three others—the Ranger, Enterprise and Independence—are self-explanatory. And still others were named for American military victories.

These include the Lexington, the Saratoga, the Princeton, the Belleau Wood, the Yorktown and the newest one, the Cowpens. And there are probably quite a few Americans who will not immediately recall the battle of Cowpens.

Cowpens is a town in the northern part of South Carolina, so named because in Colonial days cattle were rounded up and branded there. The battle was fought between American forces under Col. Daniel Morgan and a superior number of British troops under Col. Banastre Tarleton. The Americans lost seventy-two killed and wounded. The British lost 300 killed and wounded and 450 prisoners. A victory well worth commemoration.

Is Everything Topsy-Turvy?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Everything is topsy-turvy. Didn't you know that? Yes, you did, but you don't always put it into words and we often know the truth without knowing that we do.

We are afraid BECAUSE we run away. We think we are afraid but that isn't so. . . . We face a roaring lion and our feet take us swiftly away. Then fear floods our bodies and we shiver. But until we fled we were not afraid.

We face a great peril and plant our feet solidly and strike out boldly. Then, afterwards, we are brave. Something within us comes to our rescue, strengthens our arms, makes more stubborn our courage. . . . A gladness within us pours a strengthening elixir into our veins and we are twice the battling warriors we dreamed of being.

We love money before we get it. We want something else first: we crave conflict, power, a testing of our strength. Money comes our way and takes possession of us. Then we fall in love with its bright, golden face and we are misers. . . . But we were misers before we ever had the money. . . . We are not arrogant because we have power. We were arrogant first and sought the food on which our arrogance might be fed.

Men are not wise because they have a fund of knowledge. Many a man who knows little that is fed to boys and girls in school is wise. Many a child is wise before he knows his letters. Women are not tender because their pity is aroused. They act gently toward the poor, the suffering and the betrayed and then their pity blooms like a flower. The tiger loves blood before he has cleaved his piteous prey, and the humble are gentle before they have sweetened their lives with humility.

Men act, then give their reasons; they are themselves first before they try to explain and justify their actions.

Everything SEEMS topsy-turvy, but it is not actually so. If the world seems awry and contradictory, it is because we too often are expecting to be admired for our marvelous ability to stand on our heads.

Life is not always wild and frenetic. It can be serene and steady enough for those who are not turning cart-wheels.

Farmers Exceed Labor Strength In Congress Now

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Agriculture stands well with the present particular White House administration but its special pet is industrial labor.

In Congress, however, I'd guess that agriculture is stronger than labor is.

Not much, maybe, but somewhat. The congressional explanation probably is that members of the farmers' managing committee in the upper legislative chamber are considerably senior to the laborites in the lower one.

The Senate group's chairman is Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, the oldest son (in point of service) in Washington. Counting his earlier representational membership record, George W. Norris, of Nebraska, antedated Ellison by some years. It's true that Norris was voted out of office at the last election, but he still has a lot of influence.

Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, became the ranking member of the Republican agricultural committee at his end of the capital, with Senator Norris's elimination. While it's a fact that his party's in a minority, it isn't now very much so, and Mac also is leader of the G. O. P. lawmaking bunch. He's a formidable factor.

Capper a Clarion

And next, after Senator McNary, in point of seniority, comes Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas. If Senator Capper doesn't speak for the soil tillers, nobody else ever did.

It's just an accident, I suppose, that the farmers have had the industrial toilers more or less drowned out at this Washington session.

The labor crew, though, is responsible for it. They ought to have put more pep into their job.

They tried to operate without a separate Senate committee, and what Senators Smith, Norris, McNary and Capper did to them was aptly.

I think Senator Capper dispoised of them more than anybody.

In the lower House the Republicans left the job to Republican Representative Hope Keen and the Democrats to Representative H. P. Fulmer. Who ever heard of them, outside their local districts!

Concentration upon labor undoubtedly is due to the circumstance that labor's advocates are concentrated.

The farm boys are scattered. Farmers ought to organize. It's been talked about but never effectuated.

It's their own fault. It's too deep for me why Secretary Wallace doesn't evolve the idea.

At that, it would be to industrial labor's interests to boost for it. Farm and industrial labor aren't so different. Combined, they might co-operate.

Hat Doffing Wastes Space

If you are of humanity's male sex, don't take off your hat in an elevator, even though there may be women on board.

This is one of the Federal Housing Administration's recent Washington orders. There are such crowds in the capital that masculine lifting wastes space.

Pardon me, don't step aside for ladies to get on and off first.

That also gums traffic. These aren't exactly official instructions, but they're in the nature of an appeal.

The Washington jam is well-nigh unbelievable. Fuel, ordered, is about ten days late on delivery. Your dealer may be a personal friend, but he simply hasn't got the stuff. At my house

BATTLE VETERAN

A navy chaplain for fourteen of his thirty-nine years, Lieut. Comdr. Edward B. Harp, Jr., of Hagerstown, won his battle spurs in the thick of a fierce naval-air action in the South Pacific when the aircraft carrier to which he was attached, the Hornet, was battered for hours and finally sunk by waves of Japanese torpedo planes and dive bombers. Chaplain Harp was conducting the burial service for the carrier's dead when the Japanese returned to deal the death blow. Bombed and machine-gunned in the water, Harp and his fellow survivors went through two more air attacks on rescue ships before reaching a U. S. base.

Radicals, Confused on Destination, Are Contradicting Themselves, Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The domestic radicals and their liberal friends, whose counsel has largely guided this country for the past ten years, are becoming confused.

I know a guy who wanted to buy a ham sandwich. The restaurant man couldn't sell it to him except at a loss at under-calling prices. He raised the question.

Couldn't he get a quarter of a loaf of rye bread and a slice of ham?

Well, yes, it seemed that he could do that. So he did it, and got his sandwich.

And where I live, "You mustn't toss cigarette butts away too fast."

Enforced Education

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

This newspaper is not often in agreement with sentiments of Mr. Willkie on international affairs. It is particularly glad, therefore, to echo a hearty amen to this observation, made by the 1936 Republican presidential nominee during a recent address at Duke University:

"There is much discussion now—and quite properly—of the matter of war aims. Yet I have shuddered to hear a member of our government planning, when the war is over, to police the education of our late enemies, after the traditional manner of conquerors. To disarm those enemies, yes. To take whatever measures are necessary to prevent rearming, yes. . . . But having done that, education is another matter. It must grow out of and carry on a native culture. To determine the nature and manner of their own education is the right of men everywhere. And alien ideals superimposed by force will only produce resentment and hatred."

Mr. Willkie might have added, but didn't, that it is no proper part of post war activity for the United Nations or any other group of nations to dictate the type of government to espouse their confusion cause.

But their policy is clear enough in itself. They want no temporizing with anything Nazi, even in the second degree through Vichy.

Yet their international and domestic doctrines show no similar sensitivity to totalitarian ways. The rights of the individual have ceased to draw radical or liberal support.

When Peyrou came in a few days back, they went at it again, and have since succeeded in getting the communists and commentators to espouse their confusion cause.

Book Donation Suggestions

From the Christian Science Monitor

Most of America's fighting men are young. They range from ex-truck drivers to ex-lawyers. Some have three college degrees while others never finished grammar school. But most of them like to read in their leisure hours and their present reading preferences are just what they were in civilian life.

Special services officers of Army and navy say that, on the whole, their men are avid for "best sellers," fiction or non-fiction. Others find distraction in westerns, detective yarns and adventure tales. Many, anxious to learn new crafts while in the war, want recently published technical books on chemistry, mathematics, mechanical drawing, photography, shop mechanics and kindred subjects. (None want Victorian novels or cookbooks of 1895-vintage.)

Books in the preferred listings, without dog-eared, that readers donate from their shelves to the Victory Book campaign will be treasured when they appear in camp libraries. "Give the book you'd prefer to keep." The 1943 campaign, running until March 5 under auspices of the USO, American Red Cross and American Library Association, is a real opportunity to share with America's soldiers, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen the pleasures of one's own library and fresside.

Their Liberty Bells Union is practically dormant and ignored by their press, the Nation, New Republic, and PM, and orthodox liberal columnists, domestically, they favor regimentation, which is essentially a fascist theory.

For instance, they long pestered Mr. Roosevelt about temporizing with Vichy, often pretending it was not Mr. Roosevelt but the State department which was responsible for the expedient. When the repudiate Darian was allowed by Gen. Eisenhower to help us fight Nazis in Tunisia, their pesterings rose to a shriek.

They wished Darian out of the way, and when fate, presumably with the help of the Nazis or French Royalists, obliged them with the assassination of Darian, they saw the results of their policy in the confusion of French politics in North Africa. It proved very detrimental to our cause.

Charged With Victory

Our Gen. Eisenhower accepted Darian, and now the worse Peyrou, because he wanted someone whose orders would be obeyed. The general is not a social reformer, but a military man charged with the responsibility of victory.

He must have known, as do all political observers, that French politicians of all hues generally have one policy in common—the doctrine of the open palm, preferably embowered in gold and green.

The crushing realization that confusion had followed their wishing Darian dead caused the local liberals to go into meditative silence for a week or so while Eisenhower's military campaign was obviously suffering from their victory.

When Peyrou came in a few days back, they went at it again, and have since succeeded in getting the communists and commentators to espouse their confusion cause.

But their policy is clear enough in itself. They want no temporizing with anything Nazi, even in the second degree through Vichy.

Wallace under Wraps

Vice President Wallace, who was the vocal try-out man for their views in the administration, is being kept increasingly under wraps and his Bureau of Economic Warfare is facing dismantling.

There is one way the liberals and their radical friends can become consistent and clear away the clouds which confuse them. If they want to be so sensitive against Nazism in the second degree in Africa, they can also get sensitive about economic regimentation and totalitarian ways in this country and in the rest of the world.

They can espouse the democratic system all the way through with its individual rights, states rights, national rights. They can shun economic as well as political totalitarianism.

They can shed their inconsistency and confusion by hating all of Hitler, everything he stands for, not just his religious cruelty and the oppressions of his conquests.

The advocates of true democracy know where they are going and what they want to do. The liberals

New Upward Jerk In Inflation Is Seen in Offing

By MARK SULLIVAN

Two events, ahead of us but now generally foreseen, have brought into Washington talk new apprehension of another rise in cost of living, a new upward jerk in inflation. The first omen arose out of last week's labor controversy in the coal industry—which is tied over, but which in fact was the opening rumble of a greater storm. This more serious crisis will arise in March.

In the coal industry are two contracts between operators and Mr. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, which fix wage rates. The contract in the anthracite field ends April 1; the one in the bituminous field April 30. Mr. Lewis announced last week that in both fields he would demand a "wholesale increase". A concrete figure mentioned during the recent strike was $2 a day. But the amount of the demanded increase does not matter. Any increase whatever would break the present over-all ceiling over wages in industry generally set some months ago by the War Labor Board.

Standard Exceeded

The Labor board's ceiling is, for each industry, a standard described as fifteen per cent above the prevailing wage rate in that industry on January 1, 1941. Now it happens that present wages in the coal industry are already higher than that Labor board standard. (The present contracts were made in May 1941, and fixed wages more than fifteen per cent above the January 1, 1941 rate.) Nevertheless, Mr. Lewis made his statement about a "wholesale increase" in the presence of the Labor board, made it in a spirit of defiance of the Board—and stated specifically he would not be bound by the board's standard.

The question now becomes, what will the War Labor Board do when Mr. Lewis makes his demand definite and formal, as he will in March, as the end of his union's contracts approaches? To ask what the War Labor Board will do is to ask what President Roosevelt will do. For the board's only recourse, when defied, has been to pass the problem up to Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Lewis knew well, when he was serving notice on the Labor board, that he was also serving notice on the president. In the light of Mr. Lewis's manner as he served notice, in the light of the past and present relations between Mr. Lewis and Mr. Roosevelt, and in the state of labor politics generally, it is safe to assume Mr. Lewis took relish from serving aggressive notice on the president of a conflict between the two.

Living Cost Hike Seen

If Mr. Lewis's demand is yielded to by the Labor board, or if by aggressiveness Mr. Lewis wins it, certain consequences will follow. The present standard ceiling of the Labor board would be broken in the important coal industry—and if broken there, could hardly remain intact in other industries. The authority and prestige of the board would be impaired. Their standard ceiling would be over the dam.

A new increase in the cost of living, a new upward move in the inflation spiral, would be started, in the familiar way. Increased wages for miners would lead to increased cost of coal. This would be an increased cost of living to households. Even more serious, in its automatic and far-reaching results, would be the effect on industry. Increased cost of coal would lead to increased cost of steel, and of goods made of steel. There would be increased cost of railroad operation, hence increased cost of transportation, and of everything into which transportation enters. As part of the upward move, a grant of increased wages to miners would lead naturally to demands for increases by leaders of labor in other industries.

Another Foreboding Factor

The other and nearer event foreboding increased cost of living, especially food, and another upward jerk in inflation, is a demand by leaders of farm organizations for higher prices of farm crops—to be brought about by act of Congress. There is now a statutory level for crop prices, called "parity". The farm leaders wish to increase this level by taking into account the increased wages farmers must pay for the help they hire, including members of their families. The farm leaders' plea runs thus: The administration, by past actions and policies, increased wages in industry. In consequence, farmers, in order to keep their help from going into industry, are obliged to pay much higher wages.

Thus the two threats of increased cost of living and inflation spring from the same root. The root is, wages in industry. If the administration will stand firm against further increases of wages in industry, the farmers will probably give up their demand for higher prices for crops.

Girl Is Waiting But Boy in Army Does Not Write

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous
Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Copyright, 1943,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

One of my girl correspondents is uncertain whether she is engaged or not. A young soldier who had been most attentive to her during the three months he was stationed at a post near her home, begged her to "wait for him" before he went overseas.

She promised him she would wait as long as the Fates kept them apart. He had made the most devoted love to her during the time they were together, and his plea to wait for him felt was a proposal of marriage.

He wrote twice after he went overseas, and then silence. The girl imagined he must have died and was heart-broken, but a cousin also in the armed forces wrote of seeing him in London, that he was well and seemed in good spirits.

Was He in Earnest?

Was he serious when he asked her to wait, or was it just an easy way to slip out of a situation which had grown more serious than he intended? Or was he really in earnest, hoping the girl will wait for that "some day" when the war is over and he can come back to marry her.

As four months have passed since the girl has heard from her soldier sweetheart, the conjecture that all of his letters might have gone astray seems difficult to hold. There have been cases, of course, where letters have accumulated in foreign postoffices. But in an allied country like England, it's difficult to imagine a four-months accumulation of mail happening.

If there is an explanation, it will be forthcoming. But if this young soldier felt it was too much to ask of any girl to "wait for him" until after the war and the succeeding post-war period, in which all sorts of adjustments will have to be made, he should have written her a straightforward letter. It would not be an easy letter for him to write and doubtless, while he has had every intention of writing, he's put it off from day to day.

Better Plan Is To Forget

It would be unwise for any girl to consider herself engaged to a man in such circumstances. The better plan for her or for any girl who finds herself in a similar position is to forget the "wait for me" and take up the threads of life where this vague request has cut them. Court forgetfulness in some sort of useful sense work. There is a crying need for every pair of hands to help win the war.

Most likely cases similar to this girl are happening all over the country today. Young soldiers say: "Wait for me" when they kiss their girls goodbye, but at present there are so few prospects beyond the waiting.

Double Chance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
There are two young men in my life, both of them in the Army. I think I love them but can't decide which one to marry; perhaps you can help me.

No. 1 is 27 years old, hasn't had much education, and I feel I know more than he does. He is sweet and very good to me. Says he loves me and wants to marry me at once. I accepted him and he gave me a wrist watch to seal the engagement instead of a ring, which I preferred. I was at the railroad station and was going to his post to marry him when I received a long distance call not to come, and that he was sent overseas. I haven't heard from him since, and that's four weeks ago.

No. 2 is a young man I've corresponded with and see him about three times a year. I knew him before No. 1. He came to visit me from a distant state and asked me to marry him. I promised but changed my mind. I can't bear to hurt No. 1. Both of these boys are wonderful to me. No. 2 being well liked by men and women, and I feel he is superior to me. I like them both so well I don't want to give either one up. I am 21 years of age. Can you help me decide?

A READER.

When a girl imagines she's in love with two men is undecided which one to marry, it's usually a case of being in love with love rather than being in love with an individual. Why agree to marry either of these boys at the present time? Wait until you're so thoroughly swept off your feet that there'll be no question of a choice but one and one only.

Soldier's Debts

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
My husband was recently inducted into the Army. He had not finished paying a loan which the loan company says the co-makers will have to finish paying. Is it true that the Soldiers and Sailors Relief act applies only to the one in the service, and that the co-makers are now responsible? I feel pretty terribly about this, because I know my husband would be able to finish paying this loan after he returns from the army.

(MRS.) J. J. L.

As this is a legal question, I suggest that you take it up with the free Legal Aid Society in your city. They are organized for the purpose of aiding those who are in need of legal advice and cannot afford the services of a private attorney.

Secret Marriage

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I was secretly married to a soldier who has been reported "killed in action." No one, not even my mother, knew about the marriage, so my mother urged me to go out with other young men and try to forget about my boy-friend.

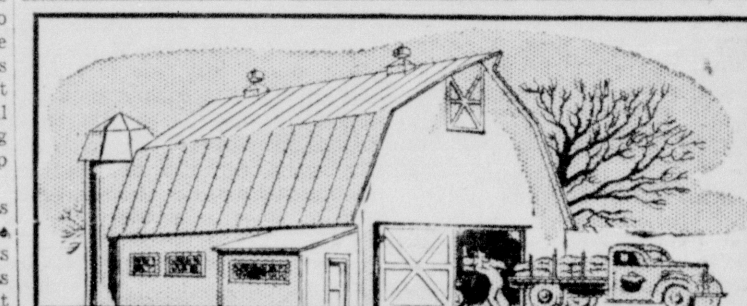

I met another young man who is very much like my husband. He says he loves me and wants me to marry him. I'm afraid to tell him I've been married, and he's so much like my husband, I'm sure I could love him and make him happy.

As our marriage was known only to us and the minister who performed the ceremony, do you think I should keep it secret.

Here's Where Your Fertilizer Should Be... Right Now!

WAITING until spring to place your fertilizer order may cause disappointment—costly delays. With the serious shortage of transportation, the place for your fertilizer is in the barn—where it's available the minute you need it in the spring.

First call on nitrogen is for explosives. All fertilizer will doubtless become scarcer as the war continues. Now, more than ever, it is vital that you buy fertilizer that gives you a full quota of plant food per ton—that does a better job of growing crops.

Southern States Open Formula Fertilizers show on the tag just what's in the bag. Made of the highest quality ingredients—according to formulas approved by plant food specialists at state agricultural colleges—and skillfully mixed in your own cooperative plants, they offer you more for each fertilizer dollar. Take your delivery now!

or tell the young man if I marry him?

PUZZLED.

If you become engaged to this new love without telling him you've been married previously, your difficulties will immediately start. In making out your marriage license, you'll have to tell whether either of you have been married before. It's not unlikely that the soldier you married and who was reported "killed in action" may have left some letters or even an arrangement for an allotment which may come to you in due time. Allotments as you know are sometimes months late in coming.

You will be on the safer side if you tell your future husband of your first marriage. And then you'd better wait until your husband's death has been absolutely confirmed, as you see by the papers, a great many Enoch Ardens are turning up these days, after having been reported dead.

Every year about 2,200 fatal automobile accidents—one out of every 13—involve a driver travelling from another state. According to the Census Bureau, eighty per cent of these deaths occur on rural highways.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to send you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must take the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Sgt. William Coble Weds Miss Katherine Stovall

Ceremony Is Performed in St. Luke's Lutheran Church Parsonage

Miss Katherine L. Stovall, 64, Pershing street, became the bride of Sgt. William C. Coble, Greensboro, N. C., yesterday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of St. Luke's Lutheran church with the Rev. H. Hall Sharp, pastor, officiating. Mrs. C. J. Everline and Miss Louise Elch were the attendants.

The bride wore a pastel blue suit dress with black accessories. She is employed by Rosenbaum Brothers.

Immediately following the ceremony Sgt. and Mrs. Coble left for Greensboro, N. C., where they will visit Mrs. William Coble, mother of the bridegroom.

After their return to this city, Sgt. Coble will report to the army air base, Redmond, Ore., where he is attached to the Second Air Force. Before entering the service last April he was employed in Peskin's shoe store.

WAR TIME CAMPAIGN WILL BE DISCUSSED

The "Role of Camping in War Time" will be the topic of the regional conference and training course for members of the camp committees and representatives of the council committees which will be held in Hagerstown from 10:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m., today.

Mrs. Robert W. Work, chairman of the local outdoor committee will lead a discussion on the day camping. Miss Florence Ann Schlott, executive secretary, will take part in a panel discussion on established camping. Mrs. Milton Beneman will represent the Brownie leaders and Mrs. Ruth Lee Andrews will accompany the delegates.

The conference has been called as a result of a meeting of the American Camping Association in Washington, D. C., where the problems that camp directors will face this summer were discussed with representatives of government agencies.

CIVILIAN "UNIFORMS"

Dark blue and light blue twill "uniforms" for feminine war workers are modeled, above, by a milling machine operator and a gauge inspector at a Chicago war plant display. Designed for both style and safety, the outfits are recommended by the Linen Supply Association of America. The light blue garment has pleated trousers, tailored shoulders and waist and a ski trouser effect to prevent clothing from catching in machinery. The dark blue is the same except that it does not have the pleats.

Fellowship Dinner Will Be Held Here Tomorrow Evening

Affair Will Be Sponsored by Women's Guild of St. Mark's Church

The Women's Guild of St. Mark's Reformed church will hold a covered dish "Fellowship Dinner" at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening in the social room of the church with Mrs. Vinter Kauffman presiding.

This will be the first of the socials held since the guild formulated its policy of fellowship, education and social service of the year.

A special musical program will be presented and quizzes will be conducted.

Mrs. S. S. Dowlan is chairman of arrangements and is being assisted by Mrs. Blanch Gillum, Mrs. Margaret Everline, Mrs. Ada Keady, Mrs. Florence Wiers and Miss Nellie Wiers.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL WEDS IN WASHINGTON

The marriage of Miss Jessie Helene Hawkins, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Hawkins, 4618 Fifteenth street, N. W., Washington, D. C., formerly of this city, and Lawrence Woodrow Hanagan, son of Mrs. Mary Hanagan, 9 Grant Circle, N. W., Washington, has been announced.

The ceremony was performed January 21 in St. Gabriel's Catholic church, Washington, with the Rev. Bernard Vogler, cousin of the bride, officiating. Miss Lucille Louise Fabik, Toledo, O., was maid of honor and William Hanagan served as his brother's best man. Frank Hanagan and Forrest Pecht were the ushers.

The bride was graduated from Ursuline Academy '40 and Ursuline Business school. She is employed by the National Savings and Trust Company, Washington.

The bridegroom was graduated from Roosevelt high school and is employed at the Harrington hotel.

Following a reception at the home of the bridegroom's mother Mr. and Mrs. Hanagan left for a wedding trip to New York. Upon their return they will reside at 4618 Fifteenth street, N. W., Washington.

A farewell dinner was held by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Petters, 224 North Centre street, Sunday afternoon for their son-in-law, Herbert F. Bailey, a pilot in the United States Merchant Marine. Mr. Bailey left Sunday for Baltimore for new orders.

Mr. Bailey came to Cumberland almost two weeks ago after returning from convoy duty to French North Africa. He and Mrs. Bailey visited in Detroit, Mich., last week.

Stock Leaders Advance Fractions To Two Points in Brisk Trading

Many Register New Highs for 15 Months or Longer

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Blue chips continued their recovery performance in today's stock market, with many registering new highs for the past fifteen months or longer with gains of fractions to 2 or more points.

Slightly irregular tendencies prevailed at the start in slow dealings. Demand for dividend payers soon appeared and both prices and volume rose in the final hour. While many issues failed to make the grade, most favorites closed near best levels of the session.

Brokers were pleased with the fact that prime stocks rather than the recent lively "penny" gyrators were the principal movers. Persistently good war news and the pressure of idle funds received the main credit for the belated swing. Reports of an imminent announcement on Allied strategy in the world conflict caused some purchasers to stand aside in the forenoon but seemingly inspired the broadening of commitments as the proceedings neared the finish.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 4 of a point at 43.3, a peak since Sept. 24, 1941. Transfers totalled 803,790 shares against 883,410 last Friday.

In the "new high" division were Standard Oil (N.J.) General Motors, U. S. Rubber, common and preferred, J. I. Case, Deere, Oliver Farm, American Can, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Zenith Radio and Pepsi-Cola. Du Pont jumped 3 1/2 and American Telephone 2 1/2. Lesser improvement was retained by U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Eastman Kodak, Fajardo Sugar, Philip Morris and Westinghouse.

Losers were Southern Pacific, Kennecott, Air Reduction, Caterpillar Tractor and Cerro de Pasco, among others.

In the Curb Aluminum Ltd. climbed 4 1/2 points on restricted sales. Forward leaners also were Humble Oil, Gulf Oil, International Petroleum, American Gas, N. J. Zinc, Phoenix Securities and Electric Bond & Share. American Cyanamid "B" slipped along with Creole Petroleum and Brazilian traction. Turnover here was 173,835 shares versus 189,736 in the previous full session.

The bond market had many firm spots among rails and specialties today but the brisk forward move of last week slowed considerably when profit taking appeared in some issues.

It was a busy session as evidenced by sales of $15,332,000, par value, against last Friday's $14,079,000. All major groups in the Associated Press averages held close to Saturday's levels except the foreign issues, which advanced to a new 1942-43 high at 57-1, up 4 of a point.

U. S. governments were steady on the stock exchange and in outside markets with changes small either way.

Position of Treasury

Business men are taking over the college custom of wearing sweaters instead of vests, according to a New York clothier. Fuel oil rationing and a growing trend to increased comfort are the chief causes, it is stated.

Children Can Be Trained To Avoid Indoor Hazards

Parents Should Punish Immediately; Spanking Is Safest

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

In the house are some more or less constant dangers. There's the gas jet. When it is lighted the baby may be tempted to push papers or an inflammable toy into the blaze. More often he wants to turn it because of the fun of doing so, and the sound of the escaping gas and the smell of it. Matches also are alluring to him.

Proned to explore, he wants to reach for things above him on the kitchen stove or sink. If a container of hot liquid is on the floor he is likely to investigate it and may tumble in. Cleaning fluids and poisons are constant hazards unless kept out of his reach. All these dangers he is inclined to face as he begins to walk.

In order to protect this tot, his mother and other elders of the household need to be eternally alert in order to keep these hazards out of his reach or him away from them. They will do best if when the child is not present they will be as vigilant as when he is, in order to make their habits of caution reliable. If, for example, while the child is asleep, mother will keep the handles of containers on the stove or kitchen table turned back, she will soon get in the habit of observing these safety cautions.

These efforts are not enough. At best the mother's vigilance may lapse, and other adults in the home may be still less dependable. The child's safety can be more than doubled by training him intelligently to avoid certain definite constant dangers automatically and permanently.

Train Children

Therefore, we do best to guarantee safety in the tot when in addition to our constantly keeping perilous things from him, we train him effectively to keep away from them. We can do this by making sure that he is instantly punished when he plays with dangerous things.

Perhaps the safest and most effective application of pain is by spanking. If the child learns that always and instantly he gets pain as he touches the gas jet until he has learned to avoid it permanently. Otherwise he will touch it sometimes or often without getting pain, and the more often this happens the less surely he will learn to avoid the gas jet.

Besides, the mother should not pull the child away or deter him with "don't." She should let him choose to touch the gas jet and then get instant pain. The purpose is not just to keep the youngster from the gas jet this time but to establish in his nervous system a connection of pain which will make him keep away from it at all times. Having perfected this training at the end of several hours or days, it will be easy to train the tot in like manner to avoid matches, and still later, other definite hazards.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My daughter 3½ years old has been a problem when I am busy talking to some one else. She constantly interrupts and demands attention. She seems to be considerate enough when with her father and me alone.

A. The chances are you don't feel annoyed when she interrupts you or her father when there is no company, while very conscious of it when there is. Train her to wait and not interrupt either of you when alone with you and her father. Be sure also to be mannerly toward her at all times. Help her to be with other children her age more, so less dependent on you parents.

Yukon Gold Seeker's Trail Is Now A Busy Supply Line for the Army

LUNCH STOP—Before the war, tourists were main pay load of the narrow-gauge White Pass & Yukon railroad, a relic of gold rush days. But now it is a vital freight artery for U. S. forces in Alaska.

By SAM JACKSON
AP Features Writer

SKAGWAY, Alaska—The trail of '98, on which thousands of Yukon gold seekers toiled and suffered, is now a busy artery of supply for the United States Army in Alaska.

The historic White Pass and Yukon railroad, a dizzy engineering feat completed in 1900, has been taken over intact by the armed forces and is now an important link between the sea at Skagway and the new Alaska highway, at Whitehorse.

When the government leased the 110-mile, narrow-gauge line, a military-minded executive of the Burlington was sent to take charge—Maj. John E. Ausland, 46, of Wichita Falls, Texas—who until the Japanese captured Lashio, had been building a railroad from Rangoon to the interior of China—a new Burma road.

At the gateway to the Yukon gold country, Ausland found a little story-book railroad, hauling scanty freight at high rates to miners and trappers of the interior. In summer, the Canadian National used it for scenic tours. But now it serves an important war function.

The Army took over the road's 200 employees and had scores of experts sent from the states. Rolling stock has been augmented by six narrow-gauge locomotives from an old mining line of the Denver & Rio Grande Western.

Everything that moves over the line cannot be described, but the ocean-rail route to Whitehorse has obvious advantages in delivering heavy road-building machinery, food products from the American northwest, and gasoline from California's refineries.

"It is a well-engineered road," says Major Ausland, "but there's plenty to worry about, particularly in winter." Snowslides and landslides cause the main trouble, but the U. S. Army railroaders are getting real service out of this once-forgotten pike.

handkerchiefs, linen or cotton, three inches wide and long enough to reach from one ear to the opposite ear and a flannel cloth three and one-half inches wide and long enough to go around the chin and over the top of the head.

The linen strips are wrung out of water which is 60 degrees F. and placed on the throat from ear to ear and covered by the flannel, which is pinned over the top of the head and allowed to remain until a new one is put on. Notice that the flannel does not go around the throat, but over the top of the head.

Public health officials are constantly saying at this time of year: "Take care of a cold. Don't let it run into pneumonia." The only thing they omit is telling us how to avoid pneumonia.

Pneumonia Scare

The scare of a cold's running into pneumonia is in my opinion grossly exaggerated. I do not believe colds ever "run into" pneumonia; reported cases to the contrary are simply an indication of a pneumonia that existed from the beginning and which was mistakenly called a cold. Furthermore, don't worry about be-

Questions and Answers

M. L. W.: I am taking one capsule daily containing the essential vitamins and am also taking three or four magnesia tablets daily. Will the magnesia lessen the value of the vitamins?

Answer: No.

D. M. G.:—1. Please tell me if a slow pulse is serious. 2. What causes pus to form in the corner of the eyes? 3. Does the thyroid gland cause the heart to beat fast at times?

Answer: 1. A slow pulse is not considered abnormal unless it is below sixty beats a minute. It can be caused by a number of things, one of which is a change in a certain part of the heart muscle known as heart block. 2. Pus in the corner of the eyes is probably due to an infection of the conjunctiva. Occasionally eyestrain from badly fitted glasses will cause this. 3. An active thyroid gland usually increases the pulse rate.

No special snow trains are being operated by the Canadian National railways this season to winter sports centers in the Laurentian mountains, but regular train service will be available to ski enthusiasts.

Farming Outlook In W. Va. Is Bad

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 24 (AP)—An uninspiring picture of expectable farm production in this agricultural area was painted here on the basis of an informal survey among county agents, assessors and auctioneers.

They agreed that farmers and agricultural workers in increasing numbers are abandoning the soil for work in war industries or service in the armed forces, with a commensurate decline in anticipated yield of ten to twenty per cent.

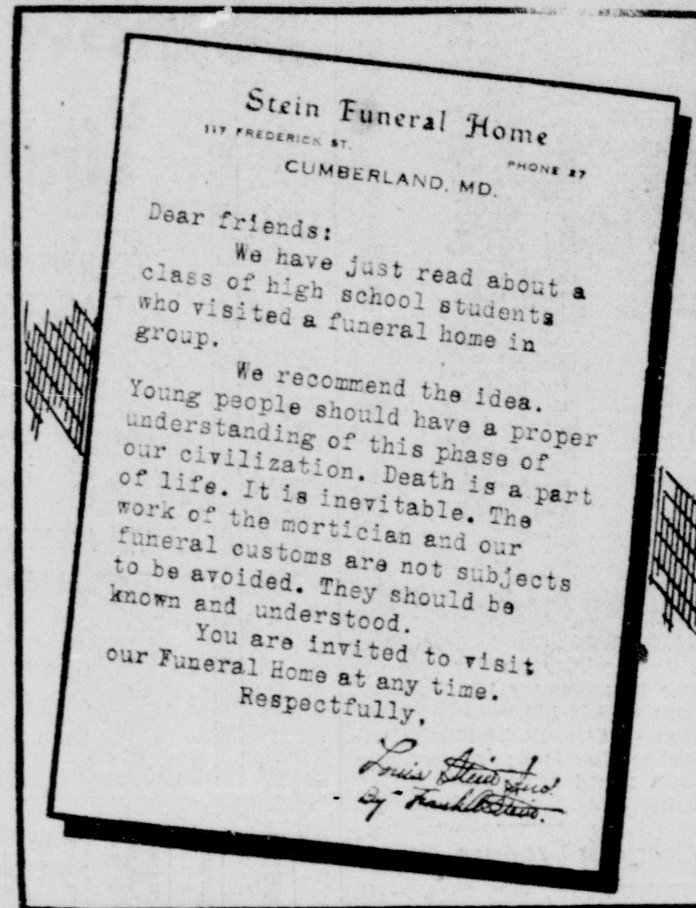

Contributing factors they cited included poor health of the older experienced farmers, shortages of machinery, and higher prices of materials and equipment.

Teachers Are Quitting For Better Positions

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 24 (AP)—More than 100 West Virginia teachers have "accepted better paying positions in teaching outside West Virginia since the close of the 1941-42 school term," R. B. Marston, executive secretary of the state education association reported today.

Marston, quoting figures from a

Somerset Firemen Cancel Annual County Convention

Motion To Admit Auxiliary to Relief Organization
Is Considered

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Jan. 25.—At the meeting Thursday evening of the Somerset County Volunteer Firemen's Association, held in Berlin, members voted to suspend the annual convention for the duration of the war. This action was taken to conserve gasoline and tires.

A resolution was introduced offering members of the women's auxiliary membership in the firemen's relief organization. The proposal was referred to the executive board for consideration and a decision will be announced at the next meeting.

Association members were supplied with identification cards providing they are representative of the organization, in the event any are stopped by police during the ban on unessential driving.

V. M. Bearer, Ligonier, state forester of the Forbes district, was guest speaker, and discussed the state's fire prevention program. He urged firemen from every part of the county to co-operate in the prevention of forest fires. He urged each company in the association to appoint a group of special wardens to conduct campaigns of forest fire prevention, and the organization of crews for forest fire fighting in the event of a particularly large fire.

The state forester supplemented his recommendations with the request that the association president, L. J. Smith, Central City, urge that the action outlined by Forester Bearer, be carried out by each company.

Members of the ladies auxiliary, who held a separate meeting in Berlin the same night, installed its officers, with Mrs. John Bell, Jr., Windber, as installing officer.

Students of 7-A Present Assembly
At Central High

Librarian Speaks on Victory
Book Campaign;
Playlet Given

LONA CONING, Jan. 25.—The 7-A section presented the program to the Central Junior high school assembly this afternoon in the auditorium.

Miss Daisy Cline, vice-principal and in charge of the library at Central, addressed the student body on the "Victory Book Campaign" and urged the boys and girls to donate books for the service men. An advertisement with a coupon attached will appear in the NEWS and the Evening Times daily while the drive is on for the convenience of those who wish to contribute. Ranks of the armed forces have so greatly increased that military officials are emphatic in the stress for the need of reading material for the men in training.

"We're all for Joe," a playlet, was enacted by 7-A pupils, Mary Beeman, Shirley Rowan, Elizabeth Green, Jack Custer, Jean Orr, Alma Henry, Elmeda Castle, Dorothy Brown, Eva Boettcher, Ella Jean Love, Barbara Jean Burt, Lois Cook, Norma Shearer, Betty Ann Culbertson and Shirley Buckholtz.

Joe Love played a piano solo. "Marching Through Berlin" was sung by Jack Custer. Alma Henry presented a violin solo. "It Takes Courage" a reading, was given by Jean Weber.

Ella Jean Love and Eva Boettcher presented a piano duet. The flag salute, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America" were given by the assembly.

George A. Meyers Is Honored at Banquet, Dance

President of Local 1874 Leaves Wednesday for Military Service

A banquet and dance in honor of George A. Meyers, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, was held last night at the Moose home with sixty persons attending the banquet and several hundreds the dance.

Telegrams of congratulations from Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor and Attorney General William C. Walsh were read. Meyers leaves Wednesday to enter military service after serving two years as head of the local union and the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council, CIO.

Katz Praises Meyers

Sidney Katz, secretary-treasurer of the state and District CIO, told the guests present that Meyers was responsible for much of the headway made by the CIO both in the state and locally. His leadership has not only been felt in bettering working conditions of Local 1874 but his prestige has aided the CIO statewide, Katz asserted.

Dr. Robert T. Kerlin, in a talk praising Meyers, stated that he has exhibited a marked degree of statesmanship in both union and civic affairs. "He has that grasp of the situation as related to the working man that means much to labor," Dr. Kerlin stated. Meyers' mother, Mrs. Catherine Meyers, was also praised by Dr. Kerlin for her guidance in his formative years. "She is responsible for much of his present standing in the union and the community," he added.

Ralph Beard, Local No. 26, URWA, praised Meyers' leadership in the CIO and presented him with a fountain pen from the Rubber Workers union. Mrs. Boyd Coleman, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, CIO, also praised Meyers for his work in building up the women's organization. Mrs. Sidney Katz, president of the state CIO Women's Auxiliary, also praised Meyers work while in office. J. William Hunt, newspaperman, said that Meyers was an outstanding citizen and labor leader.

Meyers Says Unity Counts

Meyers, in his talk, stated that he has no regrets in leaving for military service as it is the organization which has forged ahead and it will continue when he has gone. "No man is indispensable and it is unity among the ranks that counts," Meyers declared.

He reviewed the union's growth and stated that outside of improved working conditions through better contracts members must also engage in their civic activities and interest themselves in legislation affecting the worker.

"This is a people's war and we must see to it that production is maintained and increased so that America will realize victory as soon as possible," he added. He urged that labor unions strive for greater participation in activities of government policy boards such as ration boards and the manpower organizations so that workers may be not only protected but so that they may help in setting up proper regulations to prosecute the war more forcefully.

Meyers was presented with a military set by Local 1874. John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer, made the presentation. Boyd A. Payton was the toastmaster.

Army Reservists

- (2) Engineering students of sophomore, junior or senior standing.
- (3) Advanced ROTC students (juniors and seniors).
- (4) Students of sophomore or higher standing in recognized military colleges.
- (5) Aviation cadets in the enlisted reserve.
- (6) Students in the electronics training group.

The last category was set up at the request of the signal corps which asked that students in electrical engineering and other electronics courses be permitted to finish their studies at the discretion of the chief of the signal corps.

The calls for aviation cadets are separated from the general calls for enlisted reservists, because the aviation group can be inducted only as facilities become available at army flight training centers.

150,000 Men a Year

In general, the program is being geared to the specialized training program, under which a number of colleges, contracting with the War department, will provide instruction with their own facilities and staffs to a total of about 150,000 young soldiers a year.

No final selection of colleges has been made, and contracts are yet to be signed, but the reservists called from college for induction in the army must complete the basic military training of thirteen weeks before they are eligible for reassignment to a college for additional instruction.

Officials pointed out that not all of them will get back to college under this program. In the meantime, a number of young men already in the army, who have never been to college, will have completed their basic training and be eligible for participation in the college or specialized training program.

Britain Shows The Way

LONDON (AP)—Garages in more than 30 English towns will shortly be selling coal instead of gasoline. It's all part of a plan under which 10,000 cars are to be converted from "gas" to producer gas, manufactured from anthracite coal.

The vehicles affected are 2,500 public service vehicles, 7,000 commercial delivery trucks, and the remainder government and service automobiles.

Garages in the towns where conversion is essential are to sell anthracite coal for the converted vehicles when the plan is eventually ready.

early full-scale blow to the Rommel flank. But the possibilities were nevertheless clear.

Maknassy, incidentally, was hit after the Germans had dropped a note: "Why won't the Americans come out and fight?"

Von Arnim's effort to throw up a mountain barrier between the main Allied forces and the coast had run into serious difficulties. Allied headquarters declaring that the German advance in the Ouseletia valley had been stopped.

While most of Rommel's force was reported behind the Mareh line the possibility that he would attempt any serious or prolonged stand there was discounted. Military observers believed he would leave only a rather substantial rearguard there and that his intention was to avoid any pitched battle until he could join with von Arnim.

City Council Names Weighmaster and Airport Watchman

The mayor and city council yesterday made two appointments to fill municipal posts. Thomas P. Kenny, 121 Tilghman street was named city weighmaster, succeeding Rush H. Farrell who died last week. Scott R. Street, 832 Shriver avenue, was named a watchman at the new airport.

Kenny was selected from among ten applicants for the post of weighmaster. City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett commented that the applicants were among the finest ever received for a minor city job.

Guard Appointments Are Available at Bainbridge

Immediate appointments will be given to those persons qualifying for the positions of guard at the naval training station, Bainbridge. Frank Storm, of the civil service commission, announced yesterday.

Experience in firearms is essential. Storm said, adding that applicants should weigh not less than 145 pounds and be at least five feet seven inches tall. Living quarters are not available at the station.

Storm said persons now employed in war work will not be considered. Starting salary is $1,680 yearly. Applicants should apply in person to Storm at Bainbridge.

Gas Company Has War Bond Drive

With ninety per cent of its employees already purchasing war bonds through the pay roll deduction system, the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company is conducting a drive for a 100 per cent enrollment.

John C. Fisher, local heating engineer, is directing the program and said every employee of the company in Keyser, Cumberland and the George's creek communities will be contacted.

held a special session at which problems of tree trimming and tree removal were outlined. Problems of reports, permits and other technical and administrative phases of the work were discussed and outlined in detail.

This morning, the conference will embrace a thorough discussion of Maryland's plan for the future, the Forest Fire Fighter Service and forest fire prevention and control.

During the afternoon, a series of motion pictures of interest to the forest men will be shown. Kaylor said he expects to conclude the two-day session by about 5 p. m.

Additional conferences will be held in the armory at Bel Air, Thursday and Friday of this week, in Laurel, February 1 and 3, and in the court house at Salisbury, February 3, 4 and 5.

Among those attending the conference here are three representatives of the West Virginia Forestry Service. They are D. B. Bonebrake, Charles, W. Va., assistant state forester in charge of fire prevention; Ralph Quick, Elkins, W. Va., and William Francis of Logan, W. Va. The forestry service of West Virginia is planning a series of training meetings and conferences, and these men are visiting here as observers.

Jury Upholds Verdict Of Trial Magistrate

A circuit court jury returned a verdict of guilty yesterday, in the criminal appeal case of Marvin L. Gross, on two motor vehicle charges. One was a drunken driving charge in which he was fined $100 and the other was a reckless driving charge in which he was fined $5. The case had been appealed from trial magistrate court, where it was heard before Magistrate Frank A. Perdue who imposed the fines.

After the jury's verdict, the court upheld the original fines.

"For these are the lasting, truthful things..."

5 Reasons Why

1. By investing in War Bonds you help provide the planes, the tanks, the guns and the ships we must have to survive and conquer.
2. You prove that you are a patriotic American.
3. You aid the morale of our fighting men, by showing them that the entire Nation is behind them.
4. You prove to our enemies that we are a United People.
5. You protect your own financial future, as every $18.75 you invest in a War Bond brings you back $25 in 10 years. You make the world's safest investment, by buying a share in the world's most powerful country.

This is an American soldier.

He goes to war not with any fanatical theories of race superiority, of any special "place in the sun," nor any desire to rule the world by fire and by sword. He fights for something greater. For decency—for his loved ones—for his Country, not as some warlike symbol, but as the one great refuge in this world where the humble, the meek, and the righteous may live and work in peace.

This is why he must win. For these are lasting, truthful things. They are not temporary drugs for the mind, but steadfast things of the heart and the soul. And when the flame of fanaticism finally flickers and goes out, the fires of American decency and honor will still burn.

It is this same sense of decency and honor that has bound us all together. We know we cannot all fight. But there is something we can do—and are doing—to help. We can help provide the guns, the planes, the tanks, and the ships to put might behind the right.

By the tens of millions, Americans are saving for Victory in the War Bond Payroll Savings Plan. Every payday we employees, workers and bosses are putting aside 10% of our pay—a dime from every dollar—and every time these savings amount to $18.75, we get a War Bond. And—because this is the free American way—our money is working double. First it goes in a mighty flow for the instruments of Victory, then—ten years later—it comes back to us, four dollars for every three we've put into War Bonds—$25 for every $18.75.

Now look at the picture again. Then imagine that this soldier were your brother, your son, or your sweetheart.

Would ten percent of your pay, in War Bond savings, be too much to help him win—and live?

"Arabian Nights" Comes To Liberty Thursday

Past and present live right next door to each other on the Hollywood film lots. In these days of global war, they are becoming next door neighbors in other parts of the world, too. There are some things like a thousand years of history between Walter Wagner's two latest screen productions, "Eagle Squadron," a war picture of 1942; other star assignments under John and his current "Arabian Nights," Rawlins' direction.

technicolor action drama of Baghdad in the year 782 coming to the Liberty Thursday. The sets on which they were made, however, stood side by side on the Universal studio acres.

To make the parallel between the two Wagner pictures more striking, several of the actors who were prominent in "Eagle Squadron" also have important roles in "Arabian Nights." They are Jon Hall, Leif Erikson and Edgar Barrier. Hall has one of the star parts in "Arabian Nights." Maria Montez, Spanish-American beauty, and Sabu, Indian star of jungle films, have the other star assignments under John and his current "Arabian Nights," Rawlins' direction.

New Child Star Has Great Dramatic Role

With one previous screen role to her credit, tiny Margaret O'Brien, 5 years old, of Hollywood, was chosen from more than 1000 applicants for the title role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Journey for Margaret," which comes Thursday to the Maryland theater.

She appears as the pathetic war orphan adopted by Robert Young and Laraine Day in the adaptation of the touching biographical story by W. L. White, noted war correspondent.

The original Margaret is now with the Whites in America. Her parents were killed by Nazi bombs in London.

"Battle Cry of China" Took Two Years To Make

"Knowing that a miracle is taking place is one thing; catching that miracle in a camera lens is something else again," declared Rey Scott, who made "Kukan," the Battle Cry of China, the all-color feature motion picture which starts today at the Embassy theater, through United Artists release.

The epic story of China's struggle in the last four years is one which defies the imagination. Ray Scott, who hails from Cleveland, Ohio, decided to film this story, and two years of labor, hardship and danger went into the making of his thrilling pictorial record.

Moroccan Prince Hopes To Visit U. S.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRENCH MOROCCO. (AP)—Crown Prince Moulay Hassan, 13-year-old son of the Sultan of Morocco, enjoyed his first ride in an American tank so much that he confided to Lieutenant Colonel Leonard Nason, military mayor of Rabat, during the drive back to his father's palace:

"When the war is over, I am going to ask my father to let me come to America to live for a while."

George A. Meyers Is Honored at Banquet, Dance

President of Local 1874 Leaves Wednesday for Military Service

A banquet and dance in honor of George A. Meyers, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, was held last night at the Moose home with sixty persons attending the banquet and several hundreds the dance.

Telegrams of congratulations from Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor and Attorney General William C. Walsh were read. Meyers leaves Wednesday to enter military service after serving two years as head of the local union and the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council, CIO.

Katz Praises Meyers

Sidney Katz, secretary-treasurer of the state and District CIO, told the guests present that Meyers was responsible for much of the headway made by the CIO both in the state and locally. His leadership has not only been felt in bettering working conditions of Local 1874 but his prestige has aided the CIO statewide, Katz asserted.

Dr. Robert T. Kerlin, in a talk praising Meyers, stated that he has exhibited a marked degree of statesmanship in both union and civic affairs. "He has that grasp of the situation as related to the working man that means much to labor," Dr. Kerlin stated. Meyers' mother, Mrs. Catherine Meyers, was also praised by Dr. Kerlin for her guidance in his formative years. "She is responsible for much of his present standing in the union and the community," he added.

Ralph Beard, Local No. 26, URWA, praised Meyers' leadership in the CIO and presented him with a fountain pen from the Rubber Workers union. Mrs. Boyd Coleman, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, CIO, also praised Meyers for his work in building up the women's organization. Mrs. Sidney Katz, president of the state CIO Women's Auxiliary, also praised Meyers work while in office. J. William Hunt, newspaperman, said that Meyers was an outstanding citizen and labor leader.

Meyers Says Unity Counts

Meyers, in his talk, stated that he has no regrets in leaving for military service as it is the organization which has forged ahead and it will continue when he has gone. "No man is indispensable and it is unity among the ranks that counts," Meyers declared.

He reviewed the union's growth and stated that outside of improving working conditions through better contracts members must also engage in their civic activities and interest themselves in legislation affecting the worker.

"This is a 'people's war' and we must see to it that production is maintained and increased so that America will realize victory as soon as possible," he added. He urged that labor unions strive for greater participation in activities of government policy boards such as ration boards and the manpower organizations so that workers may be not only protected but so that they may help in setting up proper regulations to prosecute the war more forcefully.

Meyers was presented with a military set by Local 1874. John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer, made the presentation. Boyd A. Payton was the toastmaster.

Army Reservists

- (2) Engineering students of sophomore, junior or senior standing.
- (3) Advanced ROTC students (juniors and seniors).
- (4) Students of sophomore or higher standing in recognized military colleges.
- (5) Aviation cadets in the enlisted reserve.
- (6) Students in the electronics training group.

The last category was set up at the request of the signal corps, which asked that students in electrical engineering and other electronics courses be permitted to finish their studies at the discretion of the chief of the signal corps.

The calls for aviation cadets are separated from the general call for enlisted reservists, because the aviation group can be inducted only as facilities become available at army flight training centers.

150,000 Men a Year
In general, the program is being geared to the specialized training program, under which a number of colleges, contracting with the War department, will provide instruction with their own facilities and staffs to a total of about 150,000 young soldiers a year.

No final selection of colleges has been made, and contracts are yet to be signed, but the reservists called from college for induction in the army must complete the basic military training of thirteen weeks before they are eligible for reassignment to a college for additional instruction.

Officials pointed out that not all of them will get back to college under this program. In the meantime, a number of young men already in the army, who have completed their basic training and are eligible for participation in the college or specialized training program

LONDON (AP)—Garages in more than 30 English towns will shortly be selling coal instead of gasoline. It's all part of a plan under which 10,000 cars are to be converted from "gas" to producer gas, manufactured from anthracite coal.

The vehicles affected are 2,500 public service vehicles, 7,000 commercial delivery trucks, and the remainder government and service automobiles.

Garages in the towns where conversion is essential are to sell anthracite coal for the converted vehicles when the plan is eventually ready.

early full-scale blow to the Rommel flank. But the possibilities were nevertheless clear.

Maknassy, incidentally, was hit after the Germans had dropped a note: "Why won't the Americans come out and fight?"

Von Arnim's effort to throw up a mountain barrier between the main Allied forces and the coast had run into serious difficulties. Allied headquarters declaring that the German advance in the Ouseletta valley had been stopped.

While most of Rommel's force was reported behind the Mareh line the possibility that he would attempt any serious or prolonged stand there was discounted. Military observers believed he would leave only a rather substantial rearguard there and that his intention was to avoid any pitched battle until he could join with von Arnim.

City Council Names Weighmaster and Airport Watchman

The mayor and city council yesterday made two appointments to fill municipal posts. Thomas P. Kenny, 121 Tilghman street, was named city weighmaster, succeeding Rush H. Farrell who died last week. Scott R. Street, 832 Shriver avenue, was named a watchman at the new airport.

Kenny was selected from among ten applicants for the post of weighmaster. City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett commented that the applicants were among the finest ever received for a minor city job.

Guard Appointments Are Available at Bainbridge

Immediate appointments will be given to those persons qualifying for the positions of guard at the naval training station, Bainbridge. Frank Storm, of the civil service commission, announced yesterday.

Experience in firearms is essential, Storm said, adding that applicants should weigh not less than 145 pounds and be at least five feet seven inches tall. Living quarters are not available at the station.

Storm said persons now employed in war work will not be considered. Starting salary is $1,680 yearly. Applicants should apply in person to Storm at Bainbridge.

Gas Company Has War Bond Drive

With ninety per cent of its employees already purchasing war bonds through the pay roll deduction system, the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company is conducting a drive for a 100 per cent enrollment.

John C. Fisher, local heating engineer, is directing the program and said every employee of the company in Keyser, Cumberland and the George's creek communities will be contacted.

held a special session at which problems of tree trimming and tree removal were outlined. Problems of reports, permits and other technical and administrative phases of the work were discussed and outlined in detail.

This morning, the conference will embrace a thorough discussion of Maryland's plan for the future, the Forest Fire Fighter Service and forest fire prevention and control.

During the afternoon, a series of motion pictures of interest to the forest men will be shown. Kaylor said he expects to conclude the two-day session by about 5 p. m.

Additional conferences will be held in the army at Bel Air, Thursday and Friday of this week, in Laurel, February 1 and 3, and in the court house at Salisbury, February 3, 4 and 5.

Among those attending the conference here are three representatives of the West Virginia Forestry Service. They are D. B. Bonebrake, Charleston, W. Va., assistant state forester in charge of fire prevention; Ralph Quick, Elkins, W. Va., and William Francis of Logan, W. Va. The forestry service of West Virginia is planning a series of training meetings and conferences, and these men are visiting here as observers.

Jury Upholds Verdict Of Trial Magistrate

A circuit court jury returned a verdict of guilty yesterday, in the criminal appeal case of Marvin L. Gross, on two motor vehicle charges. One was a drunken driving charge in which he was fined $100 and the other was a reckless driving charge in which he was fined $5. The case had been appealed from trial magistrates court, where it was heard before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew who imposed the fines.

After the jury's verdict, the court upheld the original fines.

Slough Will Be Given Military Funeral

Full military honors will be accorded Franklin Bruce Slough, 46, of Paw Paw, veteran of the First World War, whose funeral will be held today at the Paw Paw Methodist church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

The Rev. Stanley McFarlane, assisted by the Rev. John Wilson, will officiate.

A color guard of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, comprising William Fletcher, George W. Banzhof, James Lehman and Earl Brode, will participate in ceremonies at the grave. "Taps" will be sounded by Joseph M. Fradiska, director of the local American Legion band.

Mr. Slough died last Saturday morning. He was a leather inspector at the Paw Paw tannery.

Former Local Man Dies in Springdale

Thurman E. Dolan, 53, of Springdale, Pa., died at his home there, Saturday. The body will be brought here today and taken to Stein's funeral home, pending funeral services Wednesday afternoon.

He was a son of George R. Dolan, Williams road, and the late Mary V. Dolan. Surviving besides his father here, are his widow, Mrs. Mary Perrin Dolan, formerly of this city, one son Boyd Dolan and one grandson, all of Springdale. He also leaves one brother Henry C. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Emma Drake, Eilerslie; Miss Daisy M. Coleman and Miss Sarah E. Coleman, at home; one brother,

Woodworking and Arc Welding Classes Are Being Formed Here

Registrations are being taken for two new classes in war production training, it was announced yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Education.

Today at 6 p. m., a class in arc welding will begin at the NYA machine shop.

Registrants found acceptable will be given probationary period of instruction of thirty hours to determine their ability to continue the course in 200 hours Sherman Twigg will instruct the class from 6 to 11 p. m., Monday through Friday.

A new general woodwork and carpentry class will begin Monday, February 1, at Fort Hill high school. The class will meet from 7 to 10 p. m., Monday through Friday with James O. Garmon as instructor.

Persons over seventeen years are eligible.

Registrations will be accepted at the board of education, the United States Employment Service or the class shops.

Man Is Held in Jail For Grand Jury Action

John W. Poffenberger, Woodlawn, Md., was committed to the Allegany county jail yesterday in default of $1,000 bond for action of the April grand jury on a charge of theft. He allegedly stole an electric refrigerator and washing machine owned by George W. Galleher, this city.

Police said the refrigerator and washing machine were stored in a home rented by Poffenberger. After they were taken Poffenberger allegedly sold them and left the city. Magistrate Frank A. Perdew presided at the hearing.

Miss Helen Wildmann, 56, 317 Bedford street, was admitted to Allegheny hospital at 10 o'clock last night for a fracture of her left wrist, suffered when she fell in the cellar at her home.

Motorist Is Acquitted

Charged with careless driving after an accident on Louisiana avenue last Thursday, Henry Virginia Sirbaugh, 1014 Ella avenue, was found not guilty in police court Saturday.

Sirbaugh was charged after his car struck an automobile parked on Louisiana avenue. He told officers J. C. Stouffer and Louis D. Downey that a door of his car came open and the accident occurred as he reached to close it.

"For these are the lasting, truthful things..."

5 Reasons Why

1. By investing in War Bonds you help provide the planes, the tanks, the guns and the ships we must have to survive and conquer.
2. You prove that you are a patriotic American.
3. You aid the morale of our fighting men, by showing them that the entire Nation is behind them.
4. You prove to our enemies that we are a United People.
5. You protect your own financial future, as every $18.75 you invest in a War Bond brings you back $25 in 10 years. You make the world's safest investment, by buying a share in the world's most powerful country.

This is an American soldier.

He goes to war not with any fanatical theories of race superiority, of any special "place in the sun," nor any desire to rule the world by fire and by sword. He fights for something greater. For decency—for his loved ones—for his Country, not as some warlike symbol, but as the one great refuge in this world where the humble, the meek, and the righteous may live and work in peace.

This is why he must win. For these are lasting, truthful things. They are not temporary drugs for the mind, but steadfast things of the heart and the soul. And when the flame of fanaticism finally flickers and goes out, the fires of American decency and honor will still burn.

It is this same sense of decency and honor that has bound us all together. We know we cannot all fight. But there is something we can do—and are doing—to help. We can help provide the guns, the planes, the tanks, and the ships to put might behind the right.

By the tens of millions, Americans are saving for Victory in the War Bond Payroll Savings Plan. Every payday we employees, workers and bosses are putting aside 10% of our pay—a dime from every dollar—and every time these savings amount to $18.75, we get a War Bond. And—because this is the free American way—our money is working double. First it goes in a mighty flow for the instruments of Victory, then—ten years later—it comes back to us, four dollars for every three we've put into War Bonds—$25 for every $18.75.

Now look at the picture again. Then imagine that this soldier were your brother, your son, or your sweetheart.

Would ten percent of your pay, in War Bond savings, be too much to help him win—and live?

Bruce	0	3	.000

Allegany and Beall high cagers, sharing the top rung in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League standing with three victories apiece, will square off tonight at 8 o'clock on the Campobello court here with the winning team taking over sole possession of the pacesetter slot.

Although the campers will have the home-floor advantage, the contest shapes up as a tossup. Beall has one of its strongest teams in recent years and with one exception, has matched or bettered Allegany's record against common foes.

Coach George "Gimp" Carrington's Mountain City passers, who recently turned back the Fort Hill Sentinels on the latter's boards, defeated Ridgeley, Bruce and Central by larger scores than Allegany. However, the campers hold a 39-28 triumph over Piedmont, a team which topped Beall twice, 36-30 and 43-34.

Beall whipped Ridgeley 37-14 while Allegany was head-pressed in stopping Jesse Riggelman's crew, 33-24. The Froeburg quint walloped Bruce 49-25 while the Campobello crew pulled their game with the Westernport crew out of the fire. Beall defeated Central 27-19 while Allegany topped the Lonaconing five, 27-23.

Beall Has Tall Team

Four of Beall's five starters are six-footers with Ritchie Middleton, the shortest player on the first team, making up in speed and shooting ability what he lacks in height.

Allegany, defending the WMI championship, will have to display a better attack than it demonstrated in its last two outings against Bruce and Ridgeley. The West Siders have won ten of eleven battles this season and will place an eight-game winning streak on the line tonight.

Beall with a season record of five triumphs and three setbacks, has topped its last four starts. Charles "Chick" Imes will referee the clash, which will follow a 7 o'clock preliminary.

In other loop encounters tonight, Fort Hill will meet Bruce on the Sentinel layout and Barton's Braves will tackle Central's Tigers at Lonaconing. Bill Hahn will referee at Coney and Van Roby will officiate at Fort Hill.

Charley Barnes, regular Fort Hill forward who missed the last game because of illness, may not be in condition to play tonight, it was announced last night by Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh, who is nursing a bad cold and didn't conduct yesterday's practice session.

Sentinels Favored

The Sentinels will be favored to defeat Bruce, which has yet to win its first game of the season. The Westernport club has dropped eleven consecutive contests. Fort Hill, sharing third place in the WMI with Central and Barton, has won six of eleven engagements.

In the preliminary tussle at 7 o'clock, the Fort Hill Reserves will tangle with the LaSalle Juniors. The Tigers of Central, always tough on their home court, appear to carry too many guns for Barton. The Tigers have captured five of eight scraps and Barton two of seven.

The only other game on tap in the district tonight is the Potomac Valley Conference encounter between the Parsons Panthers and Keyser Tornado at Keyser. The Tornado passers have dropped their last two games and will seek to improve their season record of five victories and three setbacks. Parsons has annexed three of ten tilts. Each team has a .500 record in the conference.

Gulfstream Abandons Plans for Race Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP)—Plans were dropped last night for a co-operative horse race meeting at Gulfstream Park near Miami to help owners of about 1,200 thoroughbreds, stranded here by the shut down of tracks due to the ban on pleasure driving.

Allen T. Simmons, wealthy Akron, Ohio, turf enthusiast who was the prime mover in the plan, said satisfactory arrangements could not be made.

He issued the following statement:

"After careful analysis by legal counsel, it appears that two or three weeks will be required to determine whether a satisfactory lease could be entered into."

"Under the circumstances, I do not feel justified in asking horsemen to wait for that period of time for a result that may not be forthcoming."

"I do not feel that I will be able to offer any satisfactory plan that could be put into operation this summer."

Rickey, at Press Conference, Keeps Writers Guessing

Boss of Dodgers Leaves No Stones Unturned, Likes Suspense

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Branch Rickey leans back comfortably in his swivel chair, propped a knee against a crossed knee, and emits billows of smoke like old No. 9 coming up the grade.

"Pretty near 2 o'clock, isn't it?" he asks nobody in particular.

Mr. Rickey is about to start his Brooklyn Dodger press conference. It was scheduled for 2 o'clock and so it will start at 2 o'clock.

Finally he clears his throat, ruffles the sheet of notes, and says in an apologetic tone:

"I don't know just where to start. Some thought I started at the wrong end last time. Well, I think we'd better start on Dahlgren. Dahlgren goes to Indianapolis. I'll tell you the story."

Professor Rickey then launches a long dissertation on the history of the Dahlgren deal. One thing about the professor's conferences, there are no stones left unturned under which another story might be hiding.

Writers Kept in Suspense

"Any questions?" asks the professor. Some desultory comment on Dahlgren follows. The professor turns a page, holds his cigar pointed upward like a roman candle and says abruptly:

"The Brooklyn club has signed both Coney and Waner."

That's another thing about the professor's conference. You never know when the biggest news will break, and the writers are kept in continual suspense wondering what the next topic will be. The professor runs the show, and he puts 264 question wherever he wants to put it.

He explains in detail the status of Waner and Coney, then ends up with the usual question:

"Any questions?"

That being settled, the professor changes his approach to the next subject, substituting suspense for bluntness.

Visited by Newsom

"I think I should mention I had a caller the other day. He first called me from Washington and said he should see me. Then he came here. His name was—Buck Newsom. I was pleasantly surprised. From what I had heard I expected him to weigh 280 pounds. He weighed 221. We had a nice visit. He decided to start training January 17 instead of Feb. 15. Yes, Jan. 17 is the day I saw him."

And so on and on, the professor adroitly bringing up subjects expounding on them and dropping them quite abruptly. They might subjects of any nature. For instance, he picks up a time-faded magazine.

"I have here something you might be interested in. It is a Harper's Bazaar for 1886, and it has a story on plans for the league baseball season. I paid $2 for it." Or it might be:

"While we're talking about the scouting staff, I'll tell you something else. It's not on the agenda here, but I see no reason to hold it up. We're employing another scout. His name is George Sisler."

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—This item was picked up from a German short-wave radio broadcast:

"Tokyo—The educational department of the provincial administration of Aichi has prohibited baseball. It thereby hopes to put an end also to the hardly sportsmanlike customs which had come from America as for instance the preferential treatment accorded to members of such baseball teams by university authorities."

Taking due note of the source, the reference to the "hardly sportsmanlike customs which had come from America" naturally is liable to be greeted with a slight tilt of the eyebrows, as in the conduct of the war to date the association of the word "sportsmanlike" with either the Germans or the Japanese does not seem quite apropos.

As to stopping baseball, that may be true, as strange things happen in fighting nations in war time, and baseball might conceivably have been eliminated from the universities of Aichi province for one of any number of reasons.

Proselyting May Be Answer

In fact, some colleges in this country have dropped some sports, although not by official edict. The sports have been dropped simply because conditions are not conducive to their continuation at the present time.

What really intrigues, however, is the assertion that the baseball teams have been accorded preferential treatment by the university authorities. Can it be that they have been doing a little proselyting over there, and that a good second baseman received his rice free of charge and was exempt from attending classes?

Wherever they got the idea that college baseball teams in this country were teacher's pets is a mystery. Perhaps some little Tootie crouched in buck-toothed and owl-eyed serenity in the rear row of a college classroom as a guest student at one of our schools got the idea that athletes were fair-haired boys, and carried the idea back to his blighted little isle.

No Objection to Sport

If so, his perception was poor, as so far as we know, no special favors are accorded college baseball players. If he had specified football players, his statement might have been able to stand on its bandy little legs, as there is no question but that, in quite a few instances, college football players have been earmarked for special privilege.

It is interesting to note that no objection is voiced to baseball as a sport, although it originated in this country. The objection is based purely on the conduct of the sport in the universities.

If the Japs had outlawed the game because of its origin the action would have been understandable, as it would be a resentment such as manifested itself in this country against the purchase of anything labeled "made in Japan."

But the ban was based on the sportsmanlike angle. Sportsmanlike! We did not know the Japanese had a word for it. Anything that suits their purpose is sporting.

It must be that the favoritism shown their college baseball players just didn't suit their purpose. If it had enabled them better to commit acts of treachery it would have been just fine.

Max Humphreys, TCU Ace, Scares Mates and Foes

Coach Says Confident and Versatile Cager "Drives Me Crazy"

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 25 (AP)—Max Humphreys' confidence is exceeded only by his versatility.

He's the fiery perpetual motion forward on Texas Christian university's basketball team who doesn't confine his versatility to the painted court.

He's a general handyman on the campus—plumber, carpenter and what-have-you. In the summer he does all sorts of odd jobs. One year he drove a truck through Yellowstone National Park. Another year he pitched softball for a municipal team. Last year he was a forest ranger in Idaho.

And, oh yes; one of his many hobbies is making pillows out of yarn. A loom, a shuttle and a clipping method go into this process.

But this story is about confidence as much as versatility. Confidence is what Max has plenty of.

Says his coach, Hub McQuillan: "That Humphreys—one of the finest boys I ever coached and one of the cockiest. Before, during and after every game he tells me: 'Just let me shoot from anywhere, Coach, and I'll pour that ball through that hole for you.'"

Again let McQuillan tell you about Max:

"That Max Humphreys, he'll be the death of me. When we were behind 14-3 in the first game with West Texas State, he came over to the bench to say that everything was all right, that we'd surely win. And he meant it. The kids believed it. And they did it!"

Max came from Ashton, Idaho, and is a senior at TCU. He is the Horned Frogs' leading scorer but he's not the most orthodox player on defense. Not that Max is not a good defensive man—he just scares teammates, coaches and fans alike with the way he goes about it. He may steal the ball many times but then he may also leave his own man uncovered for a shot. But he usually gets that shot back in a hurry.

"That Humphreys drives me crazy the way he won't get back on defense," says McQuillan.

Before coming to TCU, Humphreys played with Ricks Junior college in Rexburg, Idaho. He made all-conference and established an all-time high scoring record, averaging 19.5 points per game. His biggest night was thirty-two points.

He makes his points the hard way, too. Free shots are few and field goals many. He's a crowd-pleaser.

Coach's Return Breaks Winning Streak of Team

Bill Brennan, one of the umpires in the 1911 World Series between the Giants and the Athletics, which didn't end until Oct. 26, found, when he returned to his job as football coach of St. John's college, Minnesota, that in his absence the team had won its first five games under his assistant.

After Bill resumed the reins, the team lost the last three whereupon he was promptly fired.

The Spotlight

by GRANTLAND RICE
(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

Under Which Flag?

College football coaches are still wondering whether or not they will be allowed to play men sent to various campus grounds by the army or navy. The list will go beyond 300,000.

Some believe they will be given this chance. Others do not think so.

For example, will the 2,500 men sent to Yale play any football at all—and if they do, will they be permitted to play for Yale or only in a war organization?

So far no direct word along these lines has come out of Washington. Most of the coaches believe football should be carried along if there are enough students available to make up a squad, even though the squad is well below normal in playing strength.

Another Kid Prodigy

In referring to Jones, Hoppe and Feller as three kid prodigies who more than made good later on, we overlooked another.

Her name was Helen Wills. Tennis crowds still remember the young girl with pigtails, who startled galleries years ago with the sharpness of her hitting and her unusual control on the court.

She was "Little Miss Poker Face" when only twelve years old, with all the poise of a veteran competitor.

Shaughnessy Becomes Grid Coach at Pitt

Exponent of "T" Resigns Position At College Park

Noted Mentor Expected To Get between $10,000-$12,500 a Year

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25 (AP)—The board of trustees of the University of Pittsburgh, by unanimous vote tonight, authorized the appointment of Clark D. Shaughnessy as head football coach at Pitt with the rank of "full professor."

Shaughnessy, earlier in the day, had announced his resignation as coach at the University of Maryland to accept the post here. A veteran of twenty-nine years of college coaching at Tulane, New Orleans, Loyola, Chicago, Stanford and Maryland, he has been credited with first introducing the famous "T" backfield formation.

Shaughnessy becomes the tenth head coach of the Panthers, since they started the gridiron sport in 1904. He is the first non-graduate to hold the position since Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, who coached here from 1915 through 1923. Dr. John Bain (Jack) Sutherland took over after Warner and carried on until 1938.

Succeeds Bowser

The new coach succeeds Charley Bowser, who followed Sutherland as director of the Panthers. Bowser's contract expires March 15 and he expects to be in the navy by then.

"I sincerely hope Shaughnessy will be able to produce winning teams at my alma mater," Bowser said tonight. "While I am not intimately acquainted with him, having met him only casually at football meetings, I understand he is one of the finest men in the coaching profession."

Jimmy Hagan, athletic director at Pitt, disclosed that he had suggested hiring Shaughnessy after the athletic board of control some time ago expressed a desire to get "the best coach possible" to succeed Bowser.

Hagan reiterated that the hiring of such a big-name coach does not mean Pitt intends to modify its "simon pure" amateur practices in football, which are by agreement, under the supervision of the high commissioner of the Western (Big Ten) Football Conference.

Sutherland resigned as coach four years ago, saying he felt Pitt's de-emphasizing program was so severe he did not believe adequate material would be available to give his teams an even chance against scheduled opponents.

Likes Pitt's Setup

Shaughnessy, who is expected to get between $10,000 and $12,500 a year, said in a visit here over the weekend he expected no change in Pitt's athletic policy.

"I think Pitt has a fine setup and that it has the proper ideals," he said. "I think it's fine to have good athletic teams but I like to see the athletes come from the student body in a natural manner. I believe in selling the school to the athletes, not in hiring the athletes."

"I regret to leave Maryland after only a year," said Shaughnessy, "but Pittsburgh's offer, which came wholly unsolicited and as a surprise to me in these times, was such that I could not turn it down. I can say, frankly, that I consider it one of the finest football coaching opportunities I have ever had."

Joe Choynski, Who Kayoed Jack Johnson, Dies at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Jan. 25 (AP)—Joe Choynski, heavyweight fighter of an era when bare knuckles were giving way to five-ounce gloves, died yesterday. He was 74.

Choynski's list of opponents included John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Dan Creighton, Kid McCoy, Jim Jeffries, Peter Maher and Jack Johnson. He participated in more than eighty fights from 1884 until 1904. He once knocked out Johnson in four rounds and had drawn to his credit against Corbett and Jeffries.

Loftis, of Duke, Paces Southern Loop Scorers

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 25 (AP)—James Cedric Loftis, key shotmaker of Duke's defending Southern Conference basketball champions so far this season, ousted Davidson's idle Tommy Peters from the scoring lead of the loop last week with a total of sixty-four points in four loop contests.

Loftis, six-foot junior from Durham, racked a prodigious twenty-three points in Duke's 78-70 triumph over Virginia Tech Saturday night. To go ahead of Peters by a point, but the Davidson sharpshooter, busy with exams, has played one less game.

Big League Clubs Complete Lineup Of Camping Sites

Cardinals Will Do Their Spring Training at Cairo, Illinois

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals will do their spring training at Cairo, which at least sounds hot—and with the selection today of this southern Illinois city the lineup of camp sites for all major league clubs has been completed.

The St. Louis Browns, the other tardy chooser, beat their fellow-townsmen to the gun by a couple of days, announcing Cape Girardeau, Mo., as their selection, thereby becoming the only club to train West of the Mississippi.

The Cardinals' announcement puts an end to the hurried quest of the sixteen clubs to find northern sites after they were informed that southern and far-western camps were banned in the interests of curtailing transportation, and that they must find spots North of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and East of the Mississippi. Only the two St. Louis clubs were privileged to pick a Missouri site if they so desired.

Despite the obvious difficulties involved and the comparatively brief time in which to make arrangements, the clubs are pretty well satisfied that they have made the best choices possible.

With March and early April weather in the available territory uncertain, to say the least, the clubs had to consider facilities for indoor drills, as well as the problem of hotel accommodations, transportation for exhibition games and innumerable other details.

As a result the selections form an odd pattern over the territory, ranging from the seaside spot of the New York Yankees and the Bear Mountain retreat of the Brooklyn Dodgers to college campuses and the Mississippi river location of the Browns.

Spacious field houses and not a desire for an education background were the motives behind the choice of college sites, as were decided upon by such clubs as the Cincinnati Reds, the Boston Braves, the Philadelphia Phils, the Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox.

Only the Washington Senators decided to sit tight in their own city, although the Phils will be practically at home at their camp on the Swarthmore college campus. The Senators will not train on their home field, however.

Indiana draws the fat share of the clubs, with six. New Jersey gets two, and Illinois, Missouri, Delaware, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut and Washington, D. C. one each. The complete lineup:

National League
St. Louis, Cairo, Ill.; Chicago, French Lick, Ind.; Pittsburgh, Ball State Teachers college, Muncie, Ind.; Cincinnati, Indiana U., Bloomington, Ind.; New York, Lakeview, N. J.; Brooklyn, Bear Mountain, N. Y.; Boston, Choate school, Wallingford, Conn.; Philadelphia, Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, college, Swarthmore, Pa.

American League
St. Louis, Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Chicago, French Lick, Ind.; Cleveland, Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.; Detroit, Evansville, Ind.; New York, Asbury Park, N. J.; Boston, Tufts college, Medford, Mass.; Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del.; Washington, Washington, D. C.

Jack's Manager Balks at Terms For Angott Bout

NBA Proposes Fight To Clear Up Lightweight Title Muddle

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—It looked for a time today as if the well-mixed lightweight title fight might be unscrambled, but when all the votes were counted it was still the same old muddle.

To straighten out the muddle, the National Boxing Association proposed a title tussle between Beau Jack and Sammy Angott. NBA President Abe Greene suggested that the little Georgia negro, who already is recognized as head man by the New York State Athletic Commission, and the stocky Pennsylvania swatter, who abdicated the throne three months ago and recently announced his comeback, fight it out for equal shares of the gate.

Angott, who created all the confusion by retiring last fall because of "incurably" injured hands, and then decided to return to action, leaped at the suggestion. He not only approved, but he also sent along a physician's certificate stating that his hands were in A-1 condition.

Jack's Manager Balks

But when Jack's board of brain trusters heard about it, they made it very clear that the proposal was definitely not what the one-time shoe-string boy would want to find in his stocking on Christmas morning.

"Jack'll fight anybody any place, but we want the champion's end of the percentage," declared Manager Chick Wergeles, better known as Hercules, apparently because of his stature, which is roughly five-foot-five when he's standing on a stop. He pointed out that since Angott's retirement the Beau has won New York and New Jersey title "blessing," and therefore was entitled to the big slice of the pie any time we went to the post.

So it would appear that the idea that started out as a bury-the-hatchet party will wind up in just that—but the hatchet won't be buried where it was aimed. Apparently, however, Greene's crystal ball told him in advance just what might happen. In addition to suggesting the fight and asking that a "substantial portion" of the gate be given to a fund to provide athletic equipment to Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors the NBA head also threatened dire penalties if Jack's board of B. T. turned the idea down.

Greene's Warning

"If there is any hitch on the side of the management of Beau Jack or of promoters, interested in the match," Greene said, "then NBA will consider that Angott has made amends for the confusion he created by his decision to retire and then to return, and will take steps to restore recognition to him as titleholder."

If Greene has to carry out that warning, the lightweight foibles should be asked to go on tour as a three ring circus. At this writing, Jack is recognized as champion in New York and New Jersey; Slugger White has been sanctioned by the commission in his home state of Maryland, and some districts are still to be heard from.

Grace, Centre Street Quints Clash Tonight

The Grace M. E. and Centre Street M. E. basketball teams, members of the Central Y. M. C. A. Church League, will meet this evening at 7:30 on the Centre street floor in a non-loop contest. Both outfits are in the thick of the fight for the league championship, Grace holding down the runnerup slot, a game behind St. Luke's and St. Paul's the knotted leaders, and Centre Street being a game behind Grace.

toast, and a pail of coffee. For lunch he had soup, roast beef, baked potatoes, rolls, ice cream, and a pail of coffee. For dinner he had more or less what he wanted, including a pail of coffee.

This takes us a long way from the issue of Rice and Hagg, which can only be determined truly when the two runners have a chance to meet in person, both indoors and out. The age of retirement is creeping up on Mr. Rice, but he may be able to set it back a year or two by abstaining religiously from venal pies. — North American Newspaper Alliance.

Only Veal Pie Whipped Paavo
The great Paavo Nurmi recommends thirty-two as the age of retirement for members of his racket. Nurmi was twenty-seven in 1924, the year he took the Olympic games apart and came to this country to cash in. He was defeated only once here, you may remember, and then through the co-operation of a veal pie which he ate before the race. The pie bit Paavo halfway around, and Paavo bit the dust.

This, to be sure, does not disqualify Mr. Nurmi as an authority on running, except perhaps in the dietary department. He was always considered to be a little peculiar about diet.

Legend had it that the Flying Finn, on tour in the United States, subsisted entirely on black bread and fish. I have investigated this legend and found it to be unsupported by fact. The first meal Nurmi ate in New York city, at a railroad station, consisted of five tongue sandwiches and two cups of coffee. For breakfast, as a rule, he had a triple oatmeal, burned

6-Day Bike Racer Trains Pucksters

George Wiley Works for Washington Lions of American Loop

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP)—Where have the six-day bike racers gone?

Well, one of them, George Wiley, is now trainer for the Washington Lions of the American Hockey League.

Wiley, who was known in his bike-racing days as the "Syracuse Messenger," because he acquired his sturdy pair of legs by carrying messages on a bicycle in his native city, was a champ motor-paced bicycle racer as far back as 1914, when the first World war started.

Gravitating to the bike-racing track, George became the highest paid motor-paced rider in the world. He was paced to the championship by Charley Turbeyville of Chelsea, Mass.

During his racing career, Wiley also teamed up with the late Wirth-

LSU May Have First Three-Letter Sports Star in Many Years

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 25 (AP)—Louisiana State may have its first three-letter sports star in many years in Alvin Dark, sophomore, whose running, kicking and passing on the football field was considered sensational hereabouts last fall.

Dark already is busy doing regular chores on the Tiger basketball squad but, come springtime, he'll be in his element on the baseball diamond. Considered a potential big-league ball player, Dark came to LSU to play shortstop, taking up football and basketball as sidelines.

A major league umpire declares he counted forty-one spitballs pitched at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, during a night game in 1942.

When Sam Rice, former Washington outfielder, hung up his glove he was only thirteen hits short of a 3,000-hit total.

Yellow Jackets Win Third Straight Conference Game, 46-22

WARDENSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 25.—The Moorefield High Yellow Jackets cleared the decks for their important Potomac Valley Conference clash with the Romney High Pioneers at Moorefield Friday night by trimming Wardensville high hoopers, 46-22, here tonight. It was Moorefield's third straight conference triumph.

The Jackets set the pace all the way, leading 16-4 at the quarter, 28-14 at the half and 38-17 at the end of the third period. Warden Hott, who had three personal fouls called on him in the opening round, fouled out in the closing heat but shared Jacket scoring honors with Rodney Bean, each gathering a dozen points. Loy Doyle, Wardensville forward, was the game's top scorer with fifteen points. The line-ups:

YOU CAN'T GOVERN IT
IT IS ALL well and good for you to take credit for a well-played hand when you score a doubtful contract by handling each problem correctly. But many a time all the skill in the world would not avail you unless you also had some good fortune in matters over which you have no control, such as the opening lead. Don't even be too quick to blame your opponents for giving you your contract, as the result may have depended upon some factor which was completely hidden from their view and over which they had no control. In brief, try to be a bit modest about your successes.

Where South was declarer at 2-No Trumps on this deal in a team match, he made his contract. West led the heart 5 to the A, the club A was taken, and when it dropped the 10, South decided to play West for now a singleton K, so that it had to go to the 4 to the 6 and 5. The heart 4 was taken by the K and the club 9 fanned, the club Q scored and then South led the diamond 6 to the Q and A. East returned the diamond J to the K, and then the spade 2 was led toward the K. West came in with the A and sent the diamond 7 to his partner's 10. But the spade K, diamond 9 and heart Q were now good for the three tricks needed by South.

At the other table, East led the spade 3, the A winning, the J getting the next trick and the K the third. The club A, the 7 to the 8, 5 and K followed, the diamond 7 was led to the A and the spade 6 was the sixth trick.
North at Table 1 was inclined to crow because he made his contract. But wasn't he merely lucky in that, when West was the leader, his logical-appearing lead was a suit which the declarer stopped three times, whereas, when East led, his sound lead was one which was stopped only once?

OPA Maps Ration Plan for Hotels And Restaurants

Regulations Will Go into Effect at the Same Time as Points System

Finishing touches are being placed on a rationing program that will provide a fair share of scarce food commodities for restaurants, hotels and other institutional users, the Cumberland field office of the OPA announced yesterday.

The plan, which will apply to sugar, coffee and processed foods, has been set up to insure the same consideration to the food requirements of those who eat in restaurants that food rationing regulations provide for those who eat at home.

Matthew J. Mullaney, attorney, said that the new regulations will go into effect at the same time as the points rationing program covering processed foods. They will supersede the present provisions governing restaurants and similar users in the sugar and coffee rationing programs.

Classified in Three Groups

The institution plan will be contained in a forthcoming ration order and will cover all institutional users. They are classified in three broad groups:

1. Boarding houses and similar operated places.
2. Institutions of confinement such as jails and insane asylums.
3. A general group including hotels, restaurants, cafes, railway dining cars, drug store and variety chain store lunch counters, roadside stands and other establishments not included in the first two groups.

Plans are now being worked out with respect to methods by which Groups I and II will get rationed commodities and will be announced later, Mullaney said.

Group III will present a more complicated problem.

Restaurants and other establishments have been requested to keep a record of how many persons they served in December, 1942, and the quantity of certain food items they consumed during this month. When they register under the new regulations, they will submit a report on their December usage.

For this third general group, OPA will determine the amounts of rationed foodstuffs that an institutional user may obtain upon the following basis:

The quantities of coffee, sugar and processed foods used during December will be multiplied by a percentage which will be determined in accordance with the nation's supplies of rationed foods.

OPA Will Set Allowance

In addition, the number of persons served will be multiplied by a maximum allowance per person for each food item. This allowance a person will be established by OPA.

The lower of these two calculations for each rationed food commodity will be used in determining allotments of that rationed food and will be known as the institutional users base for the food commodity.

WAVES and SPARS Increase Quotas For Enlistments

At Least 25,000 Women Will Be Needed This Year, Navy Says

Plans for the immediate expansion of the Women's Reserve of the United States Naval Reserve by at least fifty per cent, have resulted in an increase in monthly recruiting quotas, according to Lieut. Comdr. R. B. LaPorte of Baltimore.

At least 25,000 recruits are needed in the WAVES and SPARS this year, according to the Navy department. Among the various specialist ratings for which women may train are aviation machinists mates, aviation metallurgists, aerographers mates, storekeepers, pharmacist's mates, yeomen, electrician's mates, parachute riggers, photographers and radiomen.

A recent modification of educational requirements for women applying for the two Women's Reserve services now makes it possible for those with only two years of high school or business school education to enlist. Women at least 20 years old and under 36 years are eligible for ratings.

For prospective officers, the age limits are from 20 to 48 years inclusive and the educational requirement is, in general, a college degree or two years of college plus excellent business experience.

Marriage regulations have been modified so that SPARS and WAVES may now marry men in any branch of the armed service except their own, and at the time they enlist, may be married to men in any branch except their own.

Like any member of the navy, WAVES and SPARS will be assigned to duty where they are most needed. Among the possibilities are various navy yards, the air bases or any other navy or coast guard establishments where well-trained women can replace men.

Ensign Regina E. Flanagan is the WAVES officer attached to the Baltimore procurement office and will also take care of enlistments for the coast guard reserve.

Mercury Soars to 66; Weather Bureau Says Cold Wave Is Coming

Springlike weather prevailed yesterday in Cumberland when the mercury soared to sixty-six degrees, an unusually high mark for late in January.

It was the highest point the mercury had reached since mid-November. December's maximum was fifty degrees while the minimum was five degrees below zero. The lowest temperature for this month is nine degrees above zero.

But don't build up any false hopes that this freak weather will continue as a cold wave is on its way here, according to the government weather bureau.

Fort Hill Art Department Helps In Food Program

Excellent Material Created To Publicize School's Nutrition Week

Visitors at Fort Hill high school during "Nutrition Week," beginning February 1, will doubtless be impressed with the way every department, and each student and teacher has responded to the idea of teaching "proper eating for good health."

Miss Evelyn Miller, county supervisor of home economics said yesterday.

One of the outstanding examples of this co-operation and interest will be evidenced by work of the art department, she explained. This department has spent two weeks preparing posters, cut-outs, bulletins and all kinds of art work, to help publicize "Nutrition Week."

Each corridor of the huge school building will be lined with cut-out soldiers wearing red, white and blue uniforms, marching up and down the hallways, up and down the stairs calling attention to proper eating. Cleverly designed, the face of each soldier is designed to represent some particular fruit or vegetable.

Then on the opposite wall, vegetables and fruits sprouting arms and legs, and with smiling facial expressions will carry on their own parade, led by a huge peanut carrying a flag.

The purpose of the program, Miss Miller explains is to call attention to the whole community to proper eating in war-time. The children will take home, each day, menus, recipes and suggestions for balanced diets and proper eating. These suggestions are offered parents to assure the building of strong, healthy bodies during wartime. Special attention is being paid in the program, to food rationing and proper substitutes.

At the school cafeteria, balanced lunches are being offered and special emphasis will also be noted here during "Nutrition Week," on what and what not to eat.

During "Nutrition Week," parents are urged to ask for information, help and advice at the school's Home Economics department and special assembly programs and lectures are being arranged for parents.

Liberty Trust Company Re-elects Directors And Officers

Stockholders of the Liberty Trust Company met at the bank here at noon yesterday and re-elected the following directors:

Edmund S. Burke, Charles G. Holzshu, Thomas W. Koon, Charles A. Piper, Morris Rosenbaum, Frank E. Smith, William C. Walsh and George G. Young.

Directors then met at 2 o'clock and re-elected (the following officers:

Charles A. Piper, president; Charles G. Holzshu, vice president and secretary; John J. Robinson, treasurer and trust officer; Thomas L. Keech, assistant treasurer and assistant trust officer; George A. Seibert, Thomas J. McNamee and Edwin M. McNamee, assistant secretaries and John R. Hamilton, branch manager.

Directors also elected, Benjamin H. Evans, James Park and Lloyd Durr, as the advisory committee, of the Lonaconing branch.

Guardsmen Will See Army Training Movies

Members of Companies C and D of the Maryland State Guard, will receive a treat tomorrow evening in the form of moving pictures of training for the United States Army.

The titles include "Infantry Drill—The Squad," "Infantry Drill—The Platoon" and "Manual of Arms, Part I and II."

The movies will be shown by Pvt. Ambrose McKenzie, of Company C, at 7:30 o'clock.

17 Year Old Youths Can Enlist in Reserves

Youths 17 years of age can now enlist in the United States Army Reserves through the local recruiting station. They must have their parents consent. Upon reaching 18 years of age they become eligible for service and will be called within a six month period. All applicants must pay their own expense to and from the Baltimore examination station.

Board No. 1 Will Send 32 Men to Induction Center

Leave For Camp Meade

Twenty-three men, called to the colors under Local Board No. 1, left yesterday for Fort George G. Meade to enter military training. They are: Carl W. Creek, Philip J. Natale, Thomas L. Green, Earl D. Athey, Philip M. Reuschel, Max L. Thompson, Francis C. Squires, Curtis M. Crider, Ralph L. Rader, Colley H. Jacobs, Harold E. Gibson, Paul E. Wighfield, Raymond G. Huff, Eugene P. Natale, John E. Ballou, John C. Miller, Franklin R. Cessna, William M. Blacker, Joseph C. Swain, Jr., William S. Sheetz, Robert A. Brunn, Richard A. Edwards, and Francis P. Wempe.

Abraham Kisher will leave for Camp Meade today.

Pocket Book Reported Stolen from Office of Chamber of Commerce

Police are investigating the theft of a woman's pocket book, containing about $11 from the office of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, fifth floor, Liberty Trust building.

The theft occurred about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to Mrs. John L. Baggett, 205 Columbia street, a secretary in the office. She said she had left the room for a few minutes and when she returned her pocket book was missing.

City detectives, Robert E. Flynn and Benjamin F. Gaffney conducted an investigation.

Water Consumption Exceeds Last Year

Water consumption in the city for the week which ended Sunday totaled 68,737,000 gallons. This represented a daily average of 9,737,000 gallons compared with a daily average of 8,213,000 gallons a year ago. Water in Lake Koon is one inch above the spillway and in Lake Gordon is two inches above.

Student Nurses Will Complete Training Here

Two from Catholic University Will Join County Staff February 1

Two students of The Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., will join the county health department Monday, February 1, to obtain rural experience in public health nursing in Allegany county.

Miss Sadie Gladwin, supervisor of nurses, announced yesterday. They are Miss Margaret Stillwagon, of Silver Spring, Md., who attended Allegany high school from 1933 to 1935 and was graduated from Emergency hospital, Washington, D. C., and Miss Evelyn Elizabeth Lesko, of Arlington, Va., a graduate of Providence hospital, Washington, D. C.

Experience in rural areas is essential to the completion of the course in public health nursing. The students will spend two months in Allegany county.

Miss Gladwin said that the co-operative program between the Washington university and the county health department was inaugurated in April, 1942. Since that date nine students have received rural training of two months' duration.

LOCAL WOMAN IN WAACS—

Auxiliary Iona Hartman, Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, is shown in her natty uniform while on a visit here from Harrisburg, Pa. where she is stationed with Air Warning Service of the Air Corps. She completed her basic training at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, several weeks ago. Her sister, Mrs. Elsie DiNicola, this city, is currently taking her basic training with the WAACS at Daytona Beach, Fla.

MOCK TRIAL AND FIRE FIGHTING FEATURE FORESTRY CONFERENCE

Forty Wardens Attending Two-day District Session Here

Forty representatives of district, state and national forestry services, including forest wardens, fire fighters and other departmental personnel, opened a two-day conference here yesterday. The conference is the first of four to be held in the four Maryland districts.

Yesterday's session opened in the court house with Joseph F. Kaylor, state forester and H. C. Buckingham, assistant state forester, greeting those participating and explaining the purpose of the meeting.

Kaylor said, "this in reality is a continuation of the meeting we held at Blue Ridge College last August, when we discussed various phases of training. At this meeting we are going a little farther and discuss a state plan for forest development, conservation and protection in Maryland and also the organization of the Forest Fire Fighter Service."

Hold Mock Trial

Capt. Ruxton M. Ridgeley of the Maryland State Police, spent much of the morning session in a lecture and demonstration on law enforcement and procedure. Climaxed with a mock trial, Capt. Ridgeley demonstrated how investigations are conducted, how evidence is collected and preserved, how arrests are made, how the case is prepared and presented and how court procedure must be followed through. He also discussed the importance of giving the public proper and accurate information as a means of crime prevention and as an educational policy.

Yesterday afternoon, the group of "visiting firemen," went to the vicinity of the Cumberland Country Club, where a huge brush pile had been constructed, to see D. M. Rochester, Washington, of the United States Forest Service, demonstrate forest fire fighting equipment.

Armed with a one-man portable pump, capable of throwing 6,500 gallons of water a minute, Rochester showed how water can be used in fighting forest fires. He explained the care and operation of the portable pump, proper method of handling the line or cotton fire hose, use of the nozzle and other phases of operation.

Several of these pumps have been obtained for use in Western Maryland and other parts of the state, Kaylor said last night, and more are being purchased.

Flintstone Youths Held for Theft Of Ration Books

Hines and Clingerman Are Given Preliminary Hearings Here

Two youths are held in the Allegany county jail in default of $1,500 and $1,000 bond for action of the federal grand jury in Baltimore on charges of theft and possession of gasoline ration coupon books.

They received a preliminary hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner Wilbur V. Wilson. Howard P. Loughrie, deputy United States marshal, will take the youths to Baltimore today. They are James Junior Hines, 19, and Joseph Harley Clingerman 18, both of near Flintstone.

They are charged with stealing several thousand gasoline ration books from a ration board office in Hagerstown. Hines is charged with three violations, theft of gasoline ration books on November 12, 1942 and December 26, 1942, and with possession of 750 "C" ration books. The latter charge is a violation of the United States war time Ration act while the other two charges are theft of government property. He is held under $1,500 bond.

Clingerman is charged with theft of government property. He allegedly stole five different kinds of gasoline ration coupon books from the Hagerstown Ration Board office. Both received three-year suspended sentences last week in Allegany County Circuit Court on a charge of burglary and given into the custody of federal officers to stand trial on the more serious charges. They were convicted of robbing several cottages on Fifteen Mile Creek near Flintstone. It was through this robbery that they were implicated in the ration book theft, officers said.

Stove Purchasing Plan Is Outlined

C of C Secretary Clarifies War Production Board Regulation

The method by which gas, coal and oil cooking stoves can be purchased since the establishment of War Production Board restrictions was outlined yesterday by Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Smith said there has been a certain amount of confusion among local residents because of the differing sales policies of some Cumberland stores, brought on by a misunderstanding of the WPB regulations.

In an effort to alleviate the local situation, Smith said he contacted WPB officials who informed him that gas, coal or oil stoves can be secured only through an application to the War Production Board in Washington.

The application, Smith explained, can be made by letter outlining the need for the stove and accompanied by a statement that no other facility is available.

If, in the installation of the stove, he explained further, additional piping is needed, an additional application for the equipment must be submitted.

Materials needed for plumbing, heating or repairs can be obtained after WPB grants the issuance of a priority rating for emergency repairs.

Two Men Graduate

Two men who enlisted in the United States Navy through the local recruiting office have graduated from the machinist's school at the Naval Training School, Norfolk, Va. They are Bernard J. Schreiber, Eckhart Mines; and Samuel H. Brown, Ridgeley, W. Va.

Dr. Robt. W. Work Recommended for Defense Director

City Officials Approve Action of County Defense Council

The Allegany County Council of Defense, headed by Alan P. Eggleston, has recommended the appointment of Dr. Robert W. Work, 950 Braddock road, for appointment to the office of director of Civilian Defense for Allegany county. The appointment is to be made to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Vincent P. Ingram, who resigned because of ill health.

In a letter to Robert France of the Maryland Council of Defense, Eggleston urges speedy action on the appointment. A copy of the letter was submitted to the mayor and city council, which approved the recommendation. The appointment is made by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor.

It is also the recommendation of the local Defense Council, that Ingram be appointed as a member of the Council. The city officials also approved this action and voted to commend Ingram for the splendid and complete job of organization and supervision he has done.

Caboose Is Wrecked, Six Cars Derailed In Train Accident

A caboose was wrecked and six cars were derailed when the locomotive of one Baltimore and Ohio freight train crashed against the rear of another freight near North Branch, east of the Ewitt's creek yards, at 6:35 a. m. yesterday. No one was injured.

One freight, an eastbound extra, was standing while a passenger train passed on an adjacent track. The other freight, travelling slowly, crashed against the caboose of the standing train, shattering that car and knocking six other cars off the track. The caboose was not occupied. Wreckage was cleared within an hour.

Ali Ghan Temple Finishes Sixth In Fund Drive

159 Temples Raise $1,169,520 for Crippled Children's Hospitals

Ali Ghan Temple, of the Ancient and Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, finished sixth among 159 temples in the special campaign in which $1,169,520 was raised for the benefit of Shriners' Crippled Children's hospitals throughout the United States.

Leander Schaidt, past potentate, said that twenty-two and six-tenths per cent of Ali Ghan Temple's membership contributed $9,300 to the campaign. This figure represented 155 members who subscribed $60 each. The goal fixed by Ali Ghan Temple was 150 subscribers.

Reports from the nation-wide drive received yesterday by Schaidt, showed that Sphinx Temple, of Hartford, Conn., of District G, in which Ali Ghan also is located, won the W. Freeeland Kendrick trophy, contributed by the former mayor of Philadelphia who is organizer and chairman of the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital Fund, for having obtained the greatest percentage of memberships as of December 31, 1942.

Hartford's percentage was thirty-two and two-tenths, representing 524 subscriptions at $60 each. Bouni temple, Baltimore, was second with twenty-four and three-tenths per cent; Rameses temple, Toronto, Canada, and Alkadar temple, Portland, Ore., were tied for third place with twenty-four and one-tenth per cent each; Luxor temple, St. John's, N. B. fifth, with twenty-two and seven-tenths per cent, and Ali Ghan Temple, of Cumberland, sixth.

A grand total of 19,492 subscriptions were received, surpassing the goal of 15,000 by 4,492 subscriptions.

CAP Is Willing To Move to New Municipal Airport

Council Wishes To Abandon Mexico Farms as City Flying Field

After being authorized yesterday by the city council to contact members of the Civil Air Patrol and determine if they can and will move their ships from the old Mexico Farms Airport to the new Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford, Mayor Thomas F. Conlon met with CAP officials last night in his office.

It was indicated after the conference that the CAP is willing to move and utilize the new facilities, however another meeting will be held later this week to complete details.

To Abandon Mexico Farms

Members of the city council discussed the plan to move the operations of the CAP and other local fliers to the new port, at their regular session yesterday. It is the idea of city officials, it was explained, to close Mexico Farms port, so far as the city is concerned. Watchmen now assigned there can then be assigned to the Municipal airport, where work will cease until new construction plans can be put into operation.

It was indicated arrangements can be made to have the local fliers use the completed portion of runway No. 1, and planes can be moved from the Mexico Farms field.

The CAP and other local fliers have requested permission to use the new field on several occasions and have indicated that the field in its present condition can be used temporarily.

WPA To Cease Work

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer reported to council that the WPA work on the new airport will be discontinued January 29. Rizer said the stone quarry, near the port has already been closed and equipment is being moved to the airport for temporary storage.

The engineer recommended that watchmen be kept on duty at the new airport, because there is a large amount of equipment and also numerous supplies there which must be cared for.

Charles Z. Heskett, city solicitor, who has charge of completing the new airport, told council work cannot be resumed either under federal funds or a local bond issue for about two months.
